INTRODUCTION.

To the Class of 1887:

Classmates: —

The following pages contain all the information I have been able to collect about the different members of the class. As far as circumstances would permit I have endeavored to have each tell his own story, and if in the judgment of some of you it seems that I have not used the editorial shears judiciously, I trust that you will make due allowance for the fact that the whole report has been prepared while other work was making very imperative demands on my time and attention. Errors there undoubtedly are. If those who note them will kindly call my attenttion to them, I shall be much obliged.

Of several members of the class I have been able to learn nothing. In some of these cases I have filled the blank from other sources, but in these instances I have respected the members' apparent desire to avoid notice and have confined myself to a mere statement of their residences and occupations.

As a number of the replies received have been numbered to correspond to the questions contained in the circular, and it has in some instances seemed best to print them in that form, I append a copy of those questions for reference.

It has been customary to include in the secretary's report some account of the University during the term which the report covers, but this has been so well done in the recent articles in the Graduates' Magazine that it has seemed unnecessary to attempt it here.

I regret deeply that I have to report the loss of two of our number, John Newmarch Cushing and Pearl Lambert Sternbergh. The short sketch of the life of the former was prepared by C. W. Rantoul, and to C. T. Sempers, of the class of '88, we are indebted for the admirable account of Sternbergh's life.

In conclusion, I wish to say that it has been a constant pleasure to receive and read the letters that have come to me in the preparation of this report, and I wish to thank each and all of you for the many expressions of kindness and good will to myself which have accompanied the more formal parts of the correspondence.

Notices will be published in the Boston Herald, Advertiser and Transcript, and the more important in the New York Times.

Very truly your classmate,

GEO. P. FURBER.

RECORD OF THE CLASS.

JUNE, 1890 — JUNE, 1893.

EDWARD STANLEY ABBOT.

Having passed all the necessary examinations for the three years' degree at the Harvard Medical School, I went abroad during the summer of '90, taking a flying trip through Germany, Austria, Switzerland, France and England. On my return I went at once to the McLean Asylum as house-pupil, and remained there until July, '91. While there I also held the appointment of assistant in Histology at the Harvard Medical School, an appointment which I held the following year also. The summer of '91 I spent mostly in Minneapolis. In the early winter I joined the Massachusetts Society of the Sons of the Revolution. The following spring, that of '92, I joined the Massachusetts Medical Society, and find myself a member of the Boston Society of Medical Sciences. I also became a successful candidate for appointment as House Officer at the Boston City Hospital, and am acting in that capacity at the present time, and shall continue so to do until January, 1894. I have received no political preferments, nor tried to get them; have made no public addresses; have published nothing; and have had no "experiences that would interest the class."

I have not yet received my degree of M. D., having never applied for it. But I expect to apply in June, if the powers above will grant me permission. I am still an inhabitant of the state of single blessedness.

Permanent address, 6 Larch Street, Cambridge, Mass.

WALTER ALEXANDER.

NEW YORK, March 15th, 1893.

Classmates of 1887:

As requested by our secretary, I send, with fraternal greeting, this account of my uneventful life since graduation.

In October, 1891, I entered the Harvard Law School, and was fortunate enough to receive in June, 1890, the degrees A. M. and LL. B. "cum laude." During those three years I was a proctor in the south-entry of Reed's block.

Although the pressure of Law School work interfered greatly with an active participation in athletics, yet I managed to keep up a great interest in rowing. I worked with the '88 Varsity crew and rowed stroke in the race which Yale won. The following year I took charge of the '92 freshman crew and coached them until they defeated Columbia. I also coached the '93 freshman. After a short vacation, I entered, on July 19th, 1890, the law offices of Cary & Whitridge, at 59 Wall street, where I served the required term as a law student. After having passed the examinations for admission to practice before the Supreme Court in November, 1891, I took the prescribed oath of an attorney and counsellor on December 5th, 1891. That same day I entered the office of Charles F. MacLean, 20 Nassau street, where I have remained ever since. In January, 1892, I was elected a member of the Bar Association of the city of New York. My residence, ever since I came to New York, has been an excellent boarding house, kept by Mrs. Taft, at No. 46 West 25th street. A number of Harvard men have joined me there, viz: Garrison, Wardner and Workum, '88; Trafford, '89; Cumnock and Nichols, '91.

I am not one of those fortunate men who have been married, nor have any children come to bless my home. On the other hand, my club membership is small. I am a member of the Harvard Club, Reform Club and Bar Association, and I am president of the "Harvard '87 Driving Club of the city of New York." This rather imposing title is given to a series of dinners gotten up for the purpose of bringing together '87 men who happen to be in or near this great city.

While I cannot be charged with any "pernicious activity" in politics, yet I have taken a proper and reasonable interest in public affairs. My first political speech was delivered at a country picnic in Mechanicsville, Mo., in 1888. In the campaign of 1892, my name was placed upon the list of speakers at the service of the New York State Democratic Campaign Committee, and I had the honor of addressing voters in Rockland, Putnam, Westchester and Queen's counties, and in the city of Brooklyn. With best wishes for '87.

WALTER ALEXANDER.

JAMES EKIN ALLISON.

My residence is now and has been since last report in Nashville, Tenn. For three years a member of the firm of Overton & Allison, engaged in coal business, my partner being J. M. Overton of the class of '86, Harvard. Since then have been Secretary and Treasurer of the Southern Manufacturing Company. Not married. Member of Hermitage Club and Bachelor's Club.

My address is Hermitage Club, Nashville, Tenn.

JOHN LINCOLN AMES.

Since last report have served as Medical and Surgical House Officer in the Boston City Hospital, from Jan. 1891, to July, 1892. Received Degree of M. D., Harvard 1892. Since July, 1892, have been located on Charles Street, Boston. Have been appointed Assistant in Histology in the Harvard Medical School, also have served as Visiting Physician to the Sharon Sanitarium, and District Physician to the Boston Dispensary.

Permanent address, 92 A. Pinckney St., Boston.

WILLIAM CHANNING APPLETON.

I have really nothing of interest to report. Since I graduated I have lived either at Cohasset or Dorchester, Mass., spending as a rule the six months from May 1st, to November 1st, at the former place, the rest of the time at the latter.

As I stated in my former report, I entered the employ of W. L. Montgomery & Co., of Boston, Foreign Agents and Merchandise Brokers, in November, 1889. I remained with that firm till June, 1892. In January of the present year I took an office at 19 Exchange Place, Boston, and am now developing some business plans on my own account.

I have made no journeys of any importance. In September, 1890, I took a business trip to Quebec, Montreal and Toronto, calling at various small Canadian towns as far west as Berlin, Ontario, and returning by way of Buffalo and Utica. In June and July, 1892, I went from Boston to the Kennebec River and thence to Philadelphia on a coasting schooner. These trips, with short runs to the Kennebec and Nantucket in July and August, 1890, and to Campobello in 1891, with six weeks at the last named place in 1892, make up my record in this line. I am a member of the New England Meteorological Society, Beverly Yacht Club, and University Club of Boston.

The Americal Meteorological Journal for July, 1892, published some notes I had made on "The Sea Breeze at Cohasset, Mass. I am not married, have neither taken part in politics nor held any public office.

Permanent address, 64 Pleasant St., Dorchester, Mass.

WALTER AUSTIN.

In answer to your letter of the 16th inst., I would say that I am still practising law in the office of John Lowell, Boston. I am a member of the Boston Athletic Association, Hawaiian Club, Young Men's Republican Club. Since the last report I have done little else than devote myself to my profession.

My permanent address is 9 Arlington street, Boston, Mass.

CHARLES FANNING AYER.

In reply to your circular asking the members of '87 to give an account of their life and doings for the past few years, would say that there is but little of interest in my experience to relate. On returning from California, where I had been for nearly a year, in July, '90, I went into the law office of Mr. F. W. Kittredge, in Boston, and remained there until December, when I went into the office of Messrs. Shattuck & Monroe. In February, '91, I was obliged to go to California to arrange the management of some property there. The trip out from Chicago, over the Atchison road, was a very eventful one, owing to the wash-outs caused by the unusually severe floods of that month. We were stranded, as it were, for some days in the mountains of Arizona, and as communication was cut off both east and west of us, we were put on rations of two meals a day, which, to the credit of the company be it said, were furnished by the railroad. Finally the railroad men succeeded in repairing the tracks sufficiently to enable us to cross the Elcajon Pass into San Bernardino. While going through this pass, where the flood had been especially severe, we were pointed out the location of a ranch house and orchard of a few days before; no trace of it, however, was left at the time we passed through. The orchard had been filled up, we were told, to the top of the trees. Certainly about five miles of the railroad track had been buried beneath the sand and detritus brought down by the water. I stayed in California until the following July, when I succeeded in getting affairs in such shape that I could return home with a clear conscience. My experience showed me, however, that I should be unable to continue in the practice of the law, as I had hoped to do, and I gave it up with great regret. Perhaps the pleasantest part of the six years since I left college, was that spent as student in a law office.

After spending the summer of '91 in the east, I again returned to California and stayed there until the following July, laying the plans and making preparations for starting a colony on the lands owned by my family there. Returning east again in July, '92, I spent the summer at Magnolia, and went again to California in the following October. At the time of this writing I have just returned from there.

My occupation in California has been very largely arranging for the planting of orange, olive, lemon, and other fruit trees, hydraulic mining, general ranching, and the development of certain water powers for electrical purposes.

When in San Francisco, where I spend considerable time while in California, I generally stop at the University Club, (which, by the way, is one of the pleasantest and best managed clubs that it has been my fortune to see), and meet there a great many Harvard men. I meet there most of the '87 men from San Francisco, and a great many of the older men, as well as some belonging to the later classes.

On the day of the Harvard-Yale game at Springfield, last fall, we had a base ball game in San Francisco, between Harvard and Yale, which, much to the delight of all western Harvard men, we won. Although I was not fortunate enough to get on the "nine," I played the part of a very enthusiastic substitute.

As to the second, third and fourth questions, I am not married or likely to be. As to the fifth, I belong to the Boston Athletic Association, the Puritan and Exchange Clubs of Boston, the Huron Mountain Hunting and Fishing Club of Michigan, the University Club of San Francisco, and the Twenty Associates of Boston; 6th, none; 7th, none; 8th, A. B. Harvard; 9th, none; 10th, none worth mentioning; 11th, none since last report, except to Nova Scotia; 12th, Lowell, Mass.

What I have just written tells everything that would be interesting to my class-mates—unless perhaps they have heard that I was shot in California last summer. The report to that effect, however, was untrue, as I was only shot at—in fact my aggressor testified under oath that he "only shot to let me know he was coming." This was simply following out his notion of the way in which a well-bred man should announce his coming.

EDWARD BACON.

The secretary is informed that he spent the winter of 1891-2 in Washington, teaching, and that during the past winter he has been similarly employed in Boston, residing in Cambridge.

Permanent address, 23 Cotton Exchange, New York, N. Y.

GEORGE PIERCE BAKER.

From 1890 to June, 1891, instructor in English at Harvard. From 1891 to August, 1892, abroad in England, Germany, Spain, Italy and France. From September, 1891, instructor in English at Harvard College and non-resident lecturer in English Composition at Wellesley College. Member of the Mermaid, Cambridge Dramatic, Papyrus and Tavern Clubs. Printed in the Harvard Monthly for May, 1891, The Children of Park's, a sketch of a seventeenth century company of child-actors. Has printed also some verse, and has given talks on The Drama in Shakespear's Times and The Drama To-day, to clubs in or near Harvard College. Will print in June, A Plot-Book of Some Elizabethan Plays, 2 vols., Ginn & Co.

WAKEFIELD BAKER.

In regard to information as to my whereabouts and doings for the last few years, I beg to state that my residence has alternated between San Francisco and Sausalito, the latter being a suburb of San Francisco. As to my occupation, I have been with the firm of Baker & Hamilton (of San Francisco, Cal.), ever since I reached this coast. In previous letters I have written you in regard to my marriage. I have two children, Livingston L. Baker being the elder and Wakefield Baker, the younger.

The only additional club that I have joined since last writing you, is the University Club of this city, an organization similar to other "Varsity" clubs in other cities. I have taken no part in politics; I have received no degrees and made no special journeys. I am Vice-President of the corporation of Baker & Hamilton, which succeeded to the business of the firm of the same name on the death of my father, which occurred last December.

Permanent address, 1882 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

CHARLES SUMNER BALCOMBE.

Is reported to be in the employ of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway Company, at Knoxville, Tenn.

Permanent address, 24 Grove St., Salem, Mass.

HENRY BLANCHARD BARBER.

Was admitted to the bar in Boston, in July, 1890, and afterwards went to New York with a view to becoming a member of the bar there. Last summer he went abroad and at present is in Paris attending lectures at the Sarbonne.

Permanent address, Meadville, Pa.

NELSON MACY BARRETT.

Since the time of the last report I have left the South and returned to my old stamping-ground, Boston and the vicinity. I left Alabama in December, 1890, bringing back with me more experience than anything else. I spent the next year and a half in study. In September, 1892, I came to Concord, N. H., where I have since remained. I am in the employ of the Republican Press Association, a corporation which does a large printing and photo-engraving business, beside publishing two newspapers,—the Concord Evening Monitor, a (daily), and the Independent Statesman, (a weekly). All of the state printing is done here. Most of my work is in the book department, although I am busy on the newspaper part of the time.

My life has been uneventful with not much in it that would interest the class. I have had no successful authorship, political honor, marriage, not even a love affair. My nearest approach to having an adventure was last Thanksgiving, when I nearly perished from exposure while making a solitary ascent of Mt. Kearsage.

CHARLES EDMUND BARROW.

I am now a resident of New York city, where I have been in the publishing business with Charles L. Webster & Co., for the past two years; am unmarried and a member of the Harvard Club only, have taken no part in politics, written no books, taken no journeys, and my life has been a very uneventful one since the last report.

My permanent address had best remain as before.

FREDERICK HAROLD BAILEY.

During the college year of 1890-91 I remained in Cambridge, studying and teaching mathematics, just as stated in the last report. The last two years I have been teaching mathematics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Permanent address, 62 Putnam Avenue, Cambridge, Mass.

JOHN WASHBURN BARTOL.

Received the degree of M. D., from the Harvard Medical School in 1890. Spent two years in the Massachusetts General Hospital and Boston Lying-In Hospital as House Officer. In 1892 he went to Vienna to continue his medical studies. He is now traveling in Europe as attending physician in a private family.

Permanent address, Lancaster, Mass.

HENRY WILLARD BEAN.

I have not changed my residence since I left the school and came to New York, i. e. 22 W. 34th St. I am still with Cousin, Dickman, Nicoll & Brown, at whose address, 15 Wall St., communications will always reach me. I have done nothing of note and have joined only the usual number of clubs. I am, however, secretary of the Commonwealth Club of this city.

HARRY HASKELL BEMIS.

In response to your request that I give the events of the past three years for the class report, I regret to say that nothing of interest to my class-mates has befallen me in this time. I am still in the banking business with the same firm, which has however changed its name from Adams, Blodget & Co., to Spencer, Trask & Co. My address is 16 Congress St.

BERNHARD BERENSON.

I have nothing to add to the account that appeared of me three years ago. I am trying to fit myself to write about Italian painting, soberly and appreciatively. I spend the winters in Florence, the springs and autumns elsewhere in Italy, the summers in Paris and London, or else in Germany.

My permanent address is, Messrs. Baring Bros. & Co., London.

HOWARD HENRY CHARLES BINGHAM.

For fourteen months, immediately after graduation, he was connected with the First National Bank of Junction City, Kansas. Here he had risen to the position of teller, when upon a visit to the East he determined to leave mercantile pursuits, and to turn his attention to teaching. He then began tutoring at his home in Hartford, and has found his time wholly occupied in this way— proving more congenial to his tastes and in that locality reasonably remunerative.

While west he joined the Knights of Pythias and the Odd Fellows. In July, 1889, he enlisted in the ancient organization of the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut, and after three years of service, during which he was Librarian and Historian, he received an honorable discharge. In the spring of 1891, he was made a Mason, and in January, 1892, exalted to the Royal Arch degree. He is much interested in this fraternity and is now passing through the chairs in both the Blue Lodge and the Chapter—being Junior Deacon in St. John's Lodge, No. 4, A. F. and A. M., and Captain of the Host in Pythagoras Chapter, No. 17, R. A. M. He has also affiliated with Charter Oak Lodge, No. 2, I. O. O. F. He extends a cordial invitation to any classmate or Harvard man, who might be passing through the city, to favor him with a call.

ELDON BISBEE.

In reply to your circular letter to the members of the Class of '87, requesting data concerning their lives during the past three years, for use as material in compiling your third report, as Secretary of the class, I have very little to say. To the questions about marriage, death, births, and other general woes, as well as to those concerning club memberships, politics, offices of profit or honor (particularly the former), public addresses and publications, a short negative will suffice. And my journeyings, while of sufficient interest and pleasure to myself on each occasion, would interest others not at all. In May of 1890, I was admitted to practice at the New York bar. I immediately opened an office at No. 80 Broadway, in this city, where I remained until November of that year. About the middle of that month I moved my office to my present address, No. 15, Wall Street, where I hope to remain indefinitely. In February of 1892, I became a member of the firm of Chandler, McKinley and Bisbee, and am still such.

Permanent address, 15 Wall Street, New York city, N. Y.

WILLIAM HOLMES BLACK.

Is in the iron and steel business in Pittsburg, Pa.

Permanent address, 168 Western Ave., Alleghany City, Pa.

JOHN BAPST BLAKE.

Since the last report was issued, I have finished my four years' course at the Harvard Medical School, and have been for one and one-half years Surgical House Officer at the Boston City Hospital. In January, '92, a few weeks after leaving the Hospital, I went abroad and remained during the year in Europe, living in Vienna the greater part of the time, and doing medical work there. Several '87 men were there at the time, including Bartol, Faulkner, Lothrop, Talbot. I returned home just before Xmas, '92, and have taken an office at 91 Newbury St. I am not married. Am a member of the B. A. A. (which may be taken as my permanent address). Am also a member of the Boylston Medical, and the Massachusetts Medical Societies. Have taken M. D. and M. A. from Harvard. Otherwise I have been a quiet and law-abiding American citizen and a democrat.

EDWARD EVERETT BLODGETT.

Shortly after our last class report, I left the office of Gaston & Whitney, and in October, 1890, I hung up my shingle at 27 School Street, Boston, where I remained until May, 1891. At that time I removed to 28 State Street, Room 40, and formed partnership with Eugene P. Carver, under the firm name of Carver & Blodgett, where I may now be found looking for business. I was married in Boston on November 17th, 1891, to Mabel Louise Fuller, daughter of Ransom Burritt Fuller and Louise S. Fuller, at 214 Newbury St., Boston, and since then I have been living on Mason Terrace, Brookline. The only clubs I have joined since our last report are the Boston Athletic Association and the University Club, which was lately formed in Boston. I have taken no active part in politics and have held no offices, either of profit, honor or trust. In fact, there is nothing else in my experience of the last three years which would be of any interest to my class-mates, and which would be merely a stating of the ups and downs of the majority of "young would-be lawyers."

HERBERT CLIFTON BOURNE.

Since the last report I sent you in 1890, I have continued in the iron and steel business. Last year I was secretary of The Condit-Fuller Co. of this city. The first of this year I became assistant manager of the firm of Bassett, Presley & Train, who last November bought out the business of Cleveland, Brown & Co., who were the oldest and largest wholesale iron and steel merchants in Ohio. I have two daughters, Madeleine Bourne born November 2, 1890, and baby, who was born April 11, 1893. For the last three years I have been Treasurer of the Harvard Club of Cleveland. Nearly every summer since I left College I have spent my vacations on Cape Cod, visiting Cambridge on the way. Last winter I spent one month in San Antonio, Texas, for my wife's health. [Mrs. Bourne, who had been ill for about a year with lung trouble, died April 30, 1893.]

WILLIAM JACKSON BOWEN.

"Was with the law firm of Griffiths, Moore & Feighan of Spokane, during the year of '90. In 1891 he opened a real estate office in Spokane and has since been engaged in the real estate business. He moved to Wenatchee, Washington, in March, 1892, where he now lives." He is secretary of the Wenatchee Board of Trade.

Permanent address, Wenatchee, Wash.

DWIGHT WHITNEY BOWLES.

I am still a member of the staff of the New York Times, with which paper I have been connected since October, 1888. I am at present editor of the Sunday edition of the Times. December 1, 1891, I was married to Miss Josephine Porter of Chicago. My permanent address is Springfield, Mass., although anything sent care The Times is of course sure to reach me.

WALTER LINCOLN BOYDEN.

Since my last report to you I have spent a year and a half as Treasurer of the H. E. Swift Co., of Boston, who manufacture electric supplies, one year as treasurer of the Parmenter Manufacturing Co., of East Brookfield, who manufacture brick, pottery and lumber, and have now just assumed the position of treasurer of The F. E. Young Co., of Worcester, manufacturers and wholesale dealers in confectionery and cigars. I am still unmarried. I have voted the Republican ticket, but have taken no further part than this in politics. Any letters directed to Beverly, Mass., will reach me wherever I may be settled.

HOMER WORTHINGTON BRAINARD.

During the winter of 1890 I was ill with influenza, complicated with nervousness brought on by overwork the previous year. For ten months I was unfit to do any mental work. However I continued my studies at the Hartford Theological Seminary as well as I could, and completed the work of the first two years of the course. Meanwhile I had been becoming more and more convinced, from the state of my health and other personal reasons equally cogent, that it was inadvisable to continue my theological studies, so I severed my relations with the Seminary in September, 1891. An opportunity offering, I became a teacher in the Hartford Public High School, where I am still. I prepared for college at this school and my relations with it as pupil or teacher, extending over a space of thirteen years, have always been pleasant. I have taught several subjects, but four-fifths of my work has been in mathematics. My health is restored, and my work has, I think been successful. I believe that in teaching I have found the work in which I can be happy and most useful. I hope some day to advance to a grade of work rather higher than that of an ordinary High School, and may possibly return to the University for a year or more of further study. I am still unmarried, have published no books, obtained no degrees in the past three years, and have taken no part in politics beyond voting in the state and national elections. I have taken considerable interest in the improvement of secondary education, and have become a member of the Connecticut Association of Classical and High School Teachers, a body which has been formed for that purpose. I read a paper before them recently upon English in preparatory schools, in which I advocated views and methods on this subject which are familiar to us as sons of Harvard.

I was present at Commencement last year and pleasantly renewed my acquaintance with several '87 men whom I had not seen since leaving college. I remained in Cambridge for six weeks afterward, attending the summer course in Geology, a subject I have long been interested in, but did not have time for it while in college. I expect to continue field work in this locality during the coming season, studing the triassic sandstone and traps, which have been so admirably studied and explained by Prof. Davis. His true explanation of this region is not at all generally known here, I find, and I have some intention of publishing a popular account of it, which can be used by the general public, and especially by the scholars in the public schools.

As I look back upon my intellectual life since leaving college I find that I am taking broader and more liberal views upon many important questions. In theology my opinions have undergone a considerable change and their present state may be perhaps best designated by the term "New Theology." I have taken much interest in those questions which are known under the name of "Higher Criticism," and have adopted most of the positions of the leading scholars of that stamp. Other literary problems have ceased to interest me, notably the classics, to which I devoted considerable time in college. While I have retained my taste for mathematics, history and science have taken the place of Greek and Latin as favorite studies. While this has been due in some part to the compelling force of my work in teaching, I think that on the whole it is due to a growth and development, as I hope, for the better. At any rate, however produced, it is a real change.

Permanent address, 23 Townley St., Hartford, Conn.

HENRY GAW BRENGLE.

Since, June, 1890 I have been with The Trust Company of North America in this city.

Permanent address, 505 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

RICHARD BRIGGS, Jr.

Has returned from Tacoma to Boston, where he is now in the crockery business with the firm of Richard, Briggs & Co.

Permanent address, care Richard, Briggs & Co., Boston, Mass.

ELLIOTT BRIGHT.

I have been unable to reach him with any letters. He left the employ of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company some time ago, to go to Los Angeles, Cal.

CLARENCE ARTHUR BRODEUR.

I have taught since my graduation, one year at the Wellesley Grammar School, two years at Franklin, Mass. I then took the first two years of the course in Boston University Law School, at the same time teaching in the Evening High School of the city of Cambridge. I then came west, reaching Tacoma, in September, 1891. I was admitted to the bar of Pierce County, Wash., in the same month. I have since taught a year in Tacoma Academy, and in August, 1892, I entered upon my present duties. The school of which I now have charge is the best equipped in the State. I like the west, but miss the literary advantages of the east.

I will answer your questions, such as apply to me as follows—

(2.) I was married June 24, 1887, at Malden, Mass., to Miss Mary Cornelia Latta, daughter of John Gilchrist and Mary Bullard Latta,—please note correction—of Newton, Mass.

(3.) Arthur Gilchrist Brodeur, born Sept. 18, 1888, at Franklin, Mass. Mary Silsby, Marion Marsh Brodeur born March 19, 1892.

(4.) At Tacoma, Wash., and died at the same place—Mary on August 5th, Marion on Aug. 16, 1892.

(10.) Feb. 17, 1890, delivered lecture on "The Adoption of the Constitution," in the Old South course of lectures delivered in Franklin, Mass.

(12.) P. O. Box 925, Tacoma, Wash.

WILLIAM ALLEN BROOKS.

I entered the Harvard Medical School in the fall of '87. From Aug. 1, 1890, until Feb. 1, 1892, I was connected with the Massachusetts General Hospital, first as externe then as "House Pupil." In June, 1891 I took my degree of M. D., receiving at the same time the degree of A. M. About Feb. 1, 1892, I opened an office 10 Exeter St., Boston, and have been in practice ever since. On Nov. 9, 1892, at New Haven, Conn., I was married to Miss Helen M. Winchell, daughter of Dr. A. E. Winchell.

I still keep my office at 10 Exeter Street, but am living, for the present, at the Grosvenor, 259 Beacon Street.

GEORGE MORGAN BROWNE, JR.

Is practising law in New York. Married Feb. 14, 1893, in Grace Church Chantry, New York, to Bertha Vanderbilt La-Bau. Is a member of the Union Club of New York.

All other questions he answers in the negative. Permanent address, Union Club, Fifth Avenue and 21st Street, New York City.

GEORGE FAUNCE BUCK.

After graduation I spent two years at Stockton and San Francisco, Cal., reading law in a law office, and at Hastings College of Law. Was admitted to practice in California, July, 1889, and spent part of the following year in a special course at Harvard Law School. January, 1891, became partner of W. L. Dudley (class of '48, Harvard Law School) in practice of law at Stockton, California, which I expect will be my permanent address.

HENRY AUGUSTUS BUCK.

Since the fall of 1889 has been connected with the editorial department of the Spirit of the Times. He is now treasurer of that paper and in reply to the question as to his writings, refers to the files of the Spirit. Is a member of the Harvard University and Athletic Clubs of New York. Unmarried.

"I have taken no part in politics except to cast my vote for Grover Cleveland last fall.

* * * * * *

A couple of months in the Azores, Portugal and England last summer, has been my only journey during the past three years."

Permanent address, care Spirit of the Times, New York City.

EDGAR BUCKINGHAM.

There is very little to tell about my doings since the last report. After working in Strassburg for a year, I spent the next year 1890-91 in Leipzig. Last year I was assistant in Physics in Cambridge, and this year I am here in Leipzig again working at physical chemistry. I spend most of my vacations in Venice. I expect to return to America next summer. The only permanent address which I can give is care Harvard College. As long as I am on this side, my address is care Barings.

JULIAN GERARD BUCKLEY.

I beg to state as follows in answer to the various questions One, no change in either residence or occupation ; two, three, four, unmarried ; five, Union, University, Lawyers, Harvard, Bar Association and Westchester Country clubs ; six, seven, eight, nine, ten, none ; eleven, several, but of no interest to the class at large ; twelve, 54 William Street, New York City, P. O. Box, 83 ; thirteen, I have devoted myself strictly to the practice of my profession, with Platt & Bowers. I might add that this firm is probably the oldest in this city and both my grandfather and father were members.

WALTER CHANNING BURBANK.

Dear Sir :—Your circular reminds me that I have neglected very many of the opportunities of the past three years. I have published no books or pamphlets. I have not as yet addressed any public meetings or attained any degrees, and I have not interested myself in politics. I have been living a quiet happy life, and had quite forgotten that honors and degrees existed. I was married in New York, Oct. 23, 1890, to Louise V. Roche, daughter of Edward and Emma L. Roche of New York, and in November following we sailed for Europe. We spent the winter in Nice and Monte Carlo, and the spring in Paris and London, returning in June of that year. Our son Channing Roche Burbank was born Sept 6, 1891, at our summer home in the White Mountains, Shelburne, N. H., where we have since spent half the year, and the winter in Boston, where I have continued the practice of law.

Permanent address 61 Court St., Boston, Mass.

THEODORE PHILLIPS BURGESS.

Nothing interesting for me to report. Have not married or killed anybody or had any children—so far as I have heard. I have started this Sulphite Pulp Company on the Androscoggin. I have been to Europe again, I believe, since my last report. My permanent address is Dedham, Mass. The company referred to is the Burgess Sulphite Fibre Company, of Berlin Falls, N. H., and Burgess is its treasurer and general manager.

CHARLES CHURCHILL CARMALT.

The year after I left college I attempted to run a ranch and study law, rather unsuccessfully, in northern Pennsylvania. The year following I commenced the study of medicine in Utica, afterward in New York, at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, (Columbia University,) where I was fortunate enough to be one of the ten honor men of my class three years later. In January of 1892, I received an appointment at the N. Y. Hospital, where I have been ever since. Poverty is the principal complaint I have to make, but have had a pleasant life in spite of it.

CHARLES CHOLLET.

[I have never had any address to which to send communications. If any member can supply one, or any information regarding him, I shall be greatly obliged.]

BERTRAM FISKE CLARK.

I am still manager of the Chicago branch of our business and am also a member of the firm Everett O. Fiske & Co., proprietors of The Fisk Teachers' Agencies. My address is 106 Wabash Ave., where I shall be very glad to see any of our classmates and to show them any courtesy in my power.

Permanent address, 106 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

HERBERT LINCOLN CLARK.

I am still engaged in the banking business, as a clerk in the office of Messrs. E. W. Clark & Co. of Philidelphia, and shall probably be connected with them for the rest of my life. I am still unmarried. I belong to several clubs in Philadelphia, both social and athletic, and am secretary and treasurer of the Harvard Club. My life has been very quiet during the last three years, and I have nothing of especial interest to report.

My permanent address will be care of Messrs. E. W. Clark & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

ARCHIBALD CAREY COOLIDGE.

In the summer of 1890 I left Paris; saw the Passion Play at Oberammergau; traveled through Norway, going as far as the North Cape; crossed over to Sweden, and from there by boat to Russia. After a week in St. Petersburg and a month in Moscow, I returned to the former city, where I remained for half a year, performing the duties of secretary of the American Legation, though without actual appointment. Towards the end of March, 1891, I went south to Odessa, and spent two months in visiting the Caucasus and Russian Central Asia, where I did not push further than Samarkand, but made a flying trip to Meshed, in Persia. In the summer I attended lectures at the University of Freiburg, and at the end of the term traveled in Hungary, and in the autumn in Italy and Sicily. I was at Freiburg for the winter term of 1891-2, and ultimately obtained my Ph. D. there, under the Professor von Holst, in July. For six weeks in the spring I made a trip to Spain. I also served for about a month as private secretary to my uncle, American Minister in Paris, then returned to America, and, after a stay of six months, in January, 1893, was formally appointed secretary to our Legation in Vienna, whither I am bound at time of writing this. I belong to no clubs, and have had nothing published except my Doctorarbeit in Germany.

FREDERIC SHURTLEFF COOLIDGE.

Since the last report I was graduated from the Massachusetts General Hospital in 1891, receiving the Harvard degree of M. D. the same year. Was married on the 12th of November, 1891, to Elizabeth Penn Sprague, only daughter of Albert Arnold and Nancy Atwood Sprague. The ensuing winter was spent quietly in New York, where I was an assistant surgeon to the New York Orthopedic Hospital and Dispensary. In June of '92, we went to Europe, traveling quite constantly over the continent and even to Egypt, the only pause being a three month's stop in Vienna for medical work. I returned to Chicago early in March of this year, to begin work in the Rush Medical College as lecturer in Orthopedic Surgery. Am a member of the Chicago Club.

Office and permanent address, 910 Columbus Memorial Building, State and Washington Streets, Chicago.

*HERMAN TIMOTHY COOLIDGE.

Died Sept. 30, 1889. See 2d Report, p. 19.

DANIEL THOMAS COSTELLO.

Replying to your recent letter addressed to "Second Comptroller's Office, Washington, D. C."—I resigned my position in the Government service, May 15, 1890, to accept an offer in the service of the Union Pacific Ry. Co., at Boston, Mass. I remained in the Boston office until March, 1891, when, at my own request, I was transferred to Omaha, Neb. I have continued in the service of the Company at Omaha, since. Was married at Washington, D. C., June 16, 1892, to Blanche Cordelia Ritchie, daughter of James W. and Cordelia Alethia Ritchie.

Any communication addressed to me in care of U. P. Ry. Co., Omaha, Neb., will reach me.

JOHN JEROME COTTER.

I graduated from the Harvard Law School in June, 1890, with the degree of LL. B. In the same month I passed the Suffolk County [Massachusetts] Bar Examination, and was, in July, 1890, admitted to practice at the Massachusetts Bar. In September, 1890, I was admitted to practice at the Indiana Bar and had my name put on the "Honor List" of the Supreme Court of Indiana. In the same month I was admitted to practice before the Federal Court of Indiana. I spent the summer and fall of 1890 with my relatives in Indianapolis and Chicago. In December, 1890, I went to New York, where I spent about a year in law offices at 120 Broadway and 32 Nassau St. In the winter of 1892, I resigned my position in New York, on account of ill-health. Since then I have devoted about half of my time to the enjoyment of life, and during the other half I have traveled. Since October 1, 1892, I have spent most of my time in Indianapolis, although during that time I made three visits to Chicago; spent March in New York and Cambridge; and have but recently returned from a very pleasant visit in the South. [I met Balcombe '87, in Knoxville, Tennessee. He is in the office of the E. T. V. and G. R. R., in that city.] I have crossed the Alleghany Mountains thirteen times in the past three years, and have travelled fully twenty-five thousand miles by rail in that time. I intend to spend the next two or three weeks in Chicago. I shall then return East and expect to be in Cambridge for Class Day and the '87 dinner. I am quite prosperous and have fully recovered my health. I intend to settle down permanently at my profession in a few months.

My addresses are, 227 East Market St., Indianapolis, Indiana; or 32 Nassau St., New York City, N. Y.; or H. 6, Cambridge Mass.

TIMOTHY CURRIER CRAIG.

"For one year after graduation I was engaged in teaching in Pinkerton Academy, in Derry, N. H.; the following year in studying in the Divinity School of Yale University; and the next year in the Seminary at Andover, Mass."

After a second year in Andover Seminary I came as a home missionary to Aberdeen, Wash. Life here has been uneventful. I have no matrimonial relations, services of renoun or deeds of influence to recount.

My permanent address is my present one, Aberdeen, Wash.

GUY CUNNINGHAM.

In January, 1891, I was admitted to practice at the Suffolk Bar. In June of the same year I graduated from the Harvard Law School, receiving the degrees of A. M., LL. B. In the fall I entered the law office of Charles B. Southard, of Boston, where I remained until September, 1892. Since then I have been practicing law at 40 Water St., Boston. I am a member of the University Club and of the Fuller Club.

My permanent address is still Gloucester.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS CURRIER

Spent the two years, 1889-1891, in Europe, studying at Berlin and Paris, and during vacations travelling through Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria, Belgium, Holland and England. Since the fall of 1891 have been instructor in History and Political Science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where I have now been appointed Assistant Professor of History. Published, through the American Academy of Political and Social Science, Philadelphia, 1893, "Constitutional and Organic Laws of France." Married, December 26, 1892, Florence May Morton of Somerville, Mass.

Permanent address, 11 Cutter St., Somerville, Mass.

WILTON LINCOLN CURRIER.

I completed the course at the Boston University Law School in 1890, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Laws. I was one of the two orators from the Law School at the commencement exercises in that year, having been chosen in an election in which both the students and faculty had a voice. My discourse was entitled, "Characteristics of the Law." In the fall of 1890, I was severely ill with slow fever for about a month and a half. On January 3, 1891, I left Boston for a trip abroad for the benefit of my health, and also to try and see what I could see. I travelled extensively in the Orient and in Europe, returning to Boston in the middle of November, 1891. Since that time I have resided in Jamaica Plain, pursuing legal studies.

JOHN NEWMARCH CUSHING, JR.

The sudden death of our class-mate, John Cushing, some two years and a half ago, was a personal grief to many of us, and a surprise and shock to all who knew him. His remarkable physique and excellent general health seemed to assure him a long and useful life.

John Newmarch Cushing, Jr., was born in Newburyport, Mass., January 24th, 1862, and was the youngest child of John Newmarch and Mary Lawrence (Brown) Cushing. He died suddenly at Bradford, Mass., December 22d, 1890, after a week's illness of typhoid fever.

Cushing was prepared for Harvard College by a course at the Newmarket High School, where he was graduated second in his class, and at Wm. Nichols' private Latin School, in Boston. He passed his entrance examinations with honors. In college he took excellent rank throughout his four years' course, showing particular aptitude for historical and economic research. Among his considerable and valuable work in history is a still unpublished monograph on the Chinese treaty, of decided merit, and showing unusual care and thoroughness for an undergraduate effort.

In June, 1887, Cushing was graduated with his class, receiving the degree of A. B. magna cum laude, with honorable mention in History and in English composition. From the college he entered the Law School where he stood high in his class, and from which he graduated in 1890, with the degrees of LL. B. and A. M. During the winter before his graduation, he was admitted to practice at the Suffolk Bar, January 1890. Shortly after graduation, Cushing entered the law office of Judge Lowell, Pemberton Square, Boston, where, with his previous thorough training and excellent abilities, he had a bright outlook for a successful legal career. Cushing's tremendous capacity for work, his faculty of intense application and his utter indifference to his surroundings at such times, was most noteworthy and unusual, and remind one strongly of the same traits so remarkable in his uncle Caleb Cushing. He was a strong reasoner in his arguments, and of forceful rather than persuasive address. His personal tastes were of the healthiest and manliest. An ardent sportsman with rod and gun, and a crack shot, he was at the same time passionately fond of the woods and of all Nature. While in college he showed a decided taste for athletics, playing on the Freshman foot-ball team until obliged to abandon it on account of a severe strain he received. In college he was a member of the "Institute of 1770" and of the "Hasty Pudding Club," and in the Law School of the "Thayer Law Club." While he evinced but little interest in the society life, so-called, of the college, he had a host of personal friends drawn to him by his attractive personality, his unfailing good nature and his perfect democracy. Indeed, the three distinguishing characteristics of Cushing's make-up, were first, his splendid physique, his democratic and approachable manner with all, and his really extraordinary ability as a worker.

His life, as I knew it, and as we all knew it, was straightforward, clean, manly. For these qualities, for his attractiveness, for his own ability and for his unfailing consideration for men of less, all who knew him liked him, and in his early death felt a keen and personal loss.

past. The directory of New York lawyers gives his address as 55 Liberty St

ARTHUR MARK CUMMINGS.

Has made no reply.

FREDERIC ALVA DEAN.

As in the first three years after graduation so in the past three years, I have had to contend with much ill-health as the result of nervous prostration. Time after time I have been compelled to give up business positions in order to seek recuperation in the country, on the farm or in the mountains. I am glad to say, however, that complete restoration to health seems now not far distant. When the second report was issued I was on the city staff of the New York Star. I left the Star in June, 1890, and spent the summer at my home, Petoskey, Mich., both in seeking health and gathering some literary material. In November, 1890, I took a position on the staff of the Chicago Herald. Some time later I became editor of a trade paper in Chicago, continuing as such until September, 1891, when impaired health forced me again to leave my position By the advice of some good friends, I became a farm hand in the garden of the world—the lake region of western New York. Here I remained until October, 1892. From October, 1892, to March, 1893, I spent in the mountains of western Pennsylvania. On March 20, 1893, I entered the general offices of the E. T. V. & G. Ry. at Knoxville, Tenn I am unmarried. Have published nothing outside of "The Heroines of Petosiga." This is all that may be of interest to the members of '87.

Permanent address Petoskey, Mich.; present address, Knoxville, Tenn., care of Auditor's office, E. T. V. & G. Ry

CHARLES JOSEPH DELONE

Since leaving Cambridge, in June, 1890, I have spent a year in New York City, in the office of Davies, Short & Townsend, and two years here (Hanover, Pa.) where I have an office. During the last presidential campaign, I became an active supporter of Cleveland and tariff reform, making several political speeches and otherwise endeavoring to convert my friends. I have been twice appointed solicitor for the town of Hanover, and have had the pleasure of delivering the Memorial Day address in the same place in 1892.

Permanent address, Hanover, Pa.

Permanent addres, 39 E. Fifty-third St., New York, N. Y.

GORDON DEXTER.

"I have been living at home with my family, occupying the position as clerk in my father's office, since the autumn of 1887. I am not, it is almost useless to say, a professional man or a politician, nor am I married. My degrees, etc., are limited to a Harvard A. B., and my clubs, etc., are merely social. My travels are limited to a journey through the West and Pacific coast, with various trips during each year in and about New England."

I have nothing to add to the above.

ELLIS LORING DRESEL.

Entered the Harvard Law School again, after an absence of two years, in the autumn of 1890, and graduated LL. B. in 1892. Since graduation I have been in the law office of Balch & Ralkemann, in Boston, and was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in January last. With the exception of a short trip to Europe in the summer of 1891, I have taken no journeys of any length. I have not married, nor have I distinguished myself in any way whatever. Member of the Boston Chess Club, Boston Camera Club, Boston Athletic Association, Puritan Club and Harvard Musical Association.

Permanent address, 320 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

GARRETT DROPPERS.

Is in Japan, where he holds a professorship.

ALBERTUS TRUE DUDLEY.

Since leaving college have been an instructor in the Phillips Exeter Academy, with a variety of special cares. Am now instructor in Latin. On July 2d, 1890, I was married to Frances Perry of Exeter, daughter of Dr. William G. Perry and Lucretia (Fiske) Perry. We have one child, a son, born July 11th, 1891; his name is William Perry Dudley. My life since graduation has been spent in Exeter, and my journeys have been limited to vacation trips in different directions within a radius of 500 miles. I came to Exeter expecting to stay but one year or possibly two, but as time has passed by my duties have changed, my responsibilities have increased, and I have found myself becoming more and more closely identified with the school. In politics I have taken no part beyond that of every citizen who deposits his ballot in accordance with his honest opinion. The local offices which I have held outside of my academy work, have not been of a nature to interest particularly the members of my class. I have written a few short stories of school life, one of which appeared in the Youth's Companion of October, 1892. Though I cannot count myself to have attained anything worth calling remarkable or even unusual, I feel sure that my life has been one of real development and growth. My work has a growing interest for me, and I have occasional glimpses of the possibility of a higher kind of service to the students of this old school than I had an idea of when I first joined it as a member of its teaching force.

My permanent address is Exeter, New Hampshire.

JAMES WILLARD DUDLEY.

My experiences during the past three years have not been of sufficient interest to make a letter worth inserting in the report, but the following will give you what information you want: I graduated from the Harvard Medical School in June, '91, and was house physician at the Boston City Hospital the year and a half succeeding June, '90. At the end of my service there, I contracted diphtheria, which laid me up for six months. Afterwards I was house physician at the Boston Lying in Hospital for four months. In December, '92, being still somewhat troubled with a sensitive throat from my previous illness, I decided to go to a dryer climate. I came to Minneapolis and began the practice of medicine here.

My address is Nicollet Avenue and Tenth St., Minneapolis, Minn

CHARLES STANFORD ELGUTTER.

Was admitted to the bar in 1891, and since that time has devoted his attention to the practice of law at Omaha, Neb. At the municipal election, November, 1891, was elected a member of the Board of Education, receiving the largest number of votes cast for any of the candidates. Following the good example set by so many '87 men, was married September 20th, 1892, to Miss Nellie Rosewater, second daughter of Edward and Leah Colman Rosewater of Omaha; spent the fall of that year in California, and, on returning to Omaha, has settled down for work. Of literary productions, has published nothing of importance, except a comedy drama suggested from the French, called "The Minotaur."

HERMAN LE ROY EDGAR.

The three years that have passed by since I last wrote you, have still found me in New York, where I have lived continuously with the exception of a few short vacations. In business, I am still in real estate, but have been taken into partnership with Mr. Eugene L. Clarkson of No. 60, Broadway, about two years ago. At present I am a member of the University and Harvard Clubs of New York, and the Newport Reading Room. On October 15th, 1891, I was married at Grace Church, in this city, by the Rev. Dr. Huntington, to Miss Alice Bayard King, daughter of Mr. Edward King of New York.

Any communications addressed to 25 Beach St., Newport, R. I., will reach me.

EDWARD STANLEY EMERY.

Resided in Plymouth until April 4th, 1892, then took the train for Los Angeles, California. Remained in Riverside, Cal., for several weeks, then came to Spokane, Washington. In July, 1892, bought a ranche situated in Rosalia Wash., where I now reside, raising stock and wheat.

My address is Rosalia, Wash.

WILLIAM ENDICOTT, 3d.

I am sorry that I cannot aid you in your work of getting up the class report by giving you any new information about myself. The last report covered everything. I am still a clerk in the office of Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Permanent address, 165 Beacon St., Boston.

WILLIAM EDWARD FAULKNER.

Is abroad pursuing his medical studies.

Permanent address, Keene, N. H.

EDWARD FISKE.

My residence is still at Weston, as it has been for the last twenty-five years. Little of interest has happened to me since the last class report. In December, 1890, I entered the law office of Storey, Thorndike & Hoar as a student, where I stayed less than a year. I then opened a law office at 60 Congress St., Boston, where I still remain. I have taken no prominent part in politics. I was a candidate for the General Court from the 18th Middlesex District in the late election, but was defeated. I have held no public office, unless the position of inspector of elections for the town of Weston may be considered such. Married at Waltham, Mass., April 20, 1893, to Ethel Warren, daughter of Dr. M. W. Kidder.

ROBERT FRANCIS FISKE.

Nothing of interest to anybody but myself has occurred since the last class report. I live now in Milton, Massachusetts, whither I moved in October, 1892, but my occupation is unchanged, being still with the American Bell Telephone Company. For the past three years I have traveled pretty extensively over this country, in the interests of the Telephone Company, and have thus been thrown in contact with more members of our class and our college contemporaries than falls to the lot of most graduates. These chance meetings all over the country and the almost universal heartiness of the greetings which pass between old college acquaintances are, it seems to me, among the most material benefits of a college course. A feeling of friendliness and good fellowship seems to exist between all graduates, whether of the same or different colleges, and the hospitality extended to a stranger in the University Clubs scattered about the country is unfailing and most cordial.

Permanent address, Milton, Mass.

ELISHA FLAGG.

I left Little, Brown & Co. in June, '91, and spent the summer in Germany and Austria. Went to New York the following winter and took a position with the C. & C. Electric Motor Co. Traveled through the West somewhat, going as far as Portland, Oregon, once. Severed my connection with above concern this spring and am now in Boston. Member of Somerset Club, Boston Athletic Association, Calumet Club of New York, and Newton Boat Club.

Permanent address, care Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

JEFFERSON BUTLER FLETCHER.

Has been an instructor in English at Harvard for the last three years. The summer before last (i. e., 1891) he spent in travel abroad, and is now on the eve of two years and a half of foreign study. Is married to Agnes Peabody Herrick, daughter of William Augustus and Harriet Emery Herrick, of Cambridge. He is a member of the Colonial Club of Cambridge.

Permanent address, care Harvard University. Address abroad, care Brown, Shipley & Co., London.

WALTER FORCHHEIMER.

Received title M. D. from Ohio Medical College in 1890. Spent twenty-seven months abroad after graduating from the medical college. Studied at Heidelburg, Göttingen, Cologne, Vienna and London, besides making a tour of northern Italy. Have been practicing ophthalmology since my return home (July, 1892).

My address is Ortiz Building, 4th and Sycamore Sts., Cincinnati, O.

CHAUNCEY CHARLES FOSTER.

In reply to your circular letter regarding your forthcoming report, would say, the account regarding me given in last report was correct. I continued in the employ of Foster Brown & Co. until May 1, 1890, when I started in the electrical business as secretary and treasurer of the McCreary Electrical Specialty Co. of New York. My duties in connection with this company necessitated my traveling a great deal through nearly all of the states east of the Mississippi. In December, 1890, my health broke down so that I was compelled to give up business and come out to Colorado. Since then I have been here continuously, with the exception of two and one-half months in the summer of 1891, when I tried to resume my business, and during five weeks last fall when I was East. During this last mentioned visit I was married to Martha Bradford Foster of Nashville, Tenn., daughter of William Fiske and Elizabeth Nicoll Foster. Aside from travels above mentioned in connection with business, and between here and "the East," my journeys have been confined to Colorado, New Mexico and Utah, in which states and territories I have taken short excursions. Besides being member of the Harvard Club of New York, I am also member of the New York Tennis Club, and the Knickerbocker Canoe Club of N. Y., and of the American Canoe Association; and out here I am a monthly member of the El Paso Club, and of The Cheyenne Mountain Country Club Association.

My permanent address remains the same as heretofore: West 158th St., Station "M," New York City.

GEORGE WALDO FOSTER.

My residence is still at No. 7 Evergreen Ave., Somerville Mass. I have for two years been in real estate and mortgag business, having offices at No. 12 Central St., Boston, an Winter Hill, Somerville. I am unmarried; a member of loc athletic and social clubs; have held no offices; obtained no d grees; published no books; delivered no addresses, and ma no extensive journeys.

DITLEY GOTHARDT MONRAD FREDERIKSEN.

Since the issue of the last report, has served for nearly a y as clerk in the office of the Chicago, Burlington & Qui Railroad, at St. Louis, Mo., and is now in real estate business in Chicago.

Address, Union Land Co., 163 Washington, St., Chicago, Ill.

ROBERT WARNER FROST.

Since the publication of the last report has resided in Brighton, Mass. Began the practice of law in Boston, in October, 1890, and is now at 5 Tremont St. Is unmarried. Member of the Allston Club of Allston, Mass., in addition to those last reported.

Permanent addres, 3 Dighton Place, Brighton, Mass.

ALBERT FULLER.

Little may be said of interest concerning my "life" since graduation. I have practiced law for the last two years at Taunton, Mass. In '91 and '92 I was candidate for the legislature on the Democratic ticket, but did not ride in on the crest of the so-called "tidal wave." Otherwise my career has been uneventful.

GEORGE POPE FURBER.

Received the degrees of LL. B. and A. M. from Harvard in 1890, and in July of that year was admitted to the bar of Suffolk County, Massachusetts. Before graduating from the Law School I had entered the law office of L. S. Dabney, and there I remained until May, 1891, when I opened an office of my own in the Exchange Building in Boston. A month or two later I accepted the position of private secretary to Hon. Geo. F. Hoar, Senator from Massachusetts, and during the summer performed a part of the duties of that position and of the clerk to the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the United States Senate, an office to which I was formally appointed Nov. 1, 1891. On the re-organization of the Senate committees in December, I resigned this clerkship to become clerk to the Committee on the Judiciary, of which Mr. Hoar then became chairman. The latter clerkship I resigned Dec. 7, 1892. Since my return from Washington my time has been devoted to the practice of my profession. I have taken no part in politics, have published nothing, have made no public addresses and have made no journeys, save short trips about Massachusetts required by my business.

Permanent address, 517 Exchange Building, Boston.

WILLIAM FRANCIS GANONG.

Has been assistant in botany at the University, 1887-88 and 1888-89, and Instructor in botany, 1889-90, and up to the prestime. April 4, 1888, was married, at Boston, to Miss Jean Murray Carman, daughter of William and Sophia M., (Bliss) Carman, of Fredericton, New Brunswick. Received the degree of A. B. from the University of New Brunswick, at Fredericton, in 1884, and the degree of A. M. from the same institution in 1886. Member of several scientific societies. Before graduation, published "The Marine Mollusca of New Brunswick." Bulletin N. B. Nat. Hist. Soc., No. VI., pp. 17-61, May, 1887. Since graduation, "List of Some of the Important Publications on Protozoa:" Riverside Nat. Hist., Vol. I, pp. 385-389, May, 1888; "List of Some of the Important Publications on Poriferata:" Riverside Nat. Hist., Vol. I., pp. 390-392; "Jacques Cartier's First Voyage:" Proceedings and Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, Vol. V., Sect. ii., pp. 121-136, May, 1888; "The Echinodermata of New Brunswick" Bulletin N. B. Nat. Hist. Soc., No. VII., pp. 12-68, June 1888. "The Economic Mollusca of Acadia:" Bulletin N. B. Nat. Hist. Soc., No. VIII., pp. 3-116, October, 1889, also published in book form, 116 pp., illustrated: Barnes & Co., St. John, N. B., 1889; "The Cartography of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, from Cartier to Champlain." Proceedings and Transactions of the Royal Society of Canada, Vol. VII., Sect.

ii., February, 1890; since published articles on natural history in various journals. "I cannot think of any additions whatever to be made to the above; my life has been without noteworthy event since the last report."

ALFRED AUGUSTUS GARDNER.

Since last report I have resided in and near New York City. In the early part of 1892 I formed a law partnership with Pierre M. Brown, which still continues under the name of Gardner & Brown. On August 22, 1892, I married Katherine Taber Willetts of New York, daughter of William H. Willets and Martha T. Willets.

My permanent address, 192 Broadway, New York City.

EDGAR MALCOLM GARNETT.

My failure to give you any information of myself since graduation has been due to no want of "class feeling" on my part, but to two principal causes: Firstly, my career up to 1890, I deemed devoid of interest to anyone, excepting possibly, a specialist in drugs, dyspepsia and melancholia; and secondly, a narration of my actual experiences would have plunged the reader into the doldrums, beyond the power of all the humorists since Aristophanes to extract him. My regard for the class must exculpate the apparent indifference. At least five of my post-collegiate years have been one tedious melodrama of disaster, with suicidal mania, incipient insanity and the ever impending fear of being converted into a globule of poisons, as the main motives. Health, wealth, and, not unnaturally, happiness left me almost simultaneously, and my life since 1888 has been little else but a despairful search for all three of those elusive desiderata. I have, fortunately, almost recovered the first, and am fairly sanguine of overtaking the other two. I wish I had reached the point from which I might view humorously my more interesting experiences: for, verily, some of them would make an owl laugh, especially that more sapient variety of the species known as the medical fraternity. But I have not yet been apotheosized, and until my wings begin to sprout I shall harbor nothing but resentment against the medical profession in general, and against the injustice of my case in particular. I will say here that any of the class who have already begun the diabolical practice of medicine may gain immortality as philanthropists by suiciding forthwith. The only other comparable boon they can bestow upon their patient fellowmen is to desist from their nefarious practices and to persuade every member of their brotherhood to do likewise. I am not writing to be "funny;" I am savagely in earnest. After this little exordium I feel in a better mood to answer your questions.

For six months after graduation I studied law in the Hastings College of this city. At the end of that period a disease of the eye and the prospect of a more profitable occupation than the law is ever likely to be in San Francisco, prompted me to forsake the fickle Themis. By the end of the year my health began to fail me, and to recuperate I took a trip with a brother of Ashe '87 to the Sierras. We lived on our own cooking for six weeks, and, consistently with my proverbial luck, lost everything, including ourselves, horses, and what health had remained with me. On my return to the city I surrendered myself to the doctors. They completed the work my gastronomic experiments had begun. From that time up to within six months of the present, I was a chronic invalid—free from pain scarcely a minute of the day. My culinary skill and the doctors were the causes, catarrh of the stomach and intestines the effects. I ran the gamut of the so called legitimate remedies, and in despair turned to the nostrums recommended by "friends." But, just as what was left of me was shaking on the verge of insanity, the tide turned in my favor, and bore me beyond the reach of drug stores. I was not idle in the midst of all this chaos, for despite the nightmare of stomach tubes, pepsin, nux vomica, arsenic, milk diets, etc., etc., ad infinitum, I entered in 1889 the Commercial Insurance Co. But after six months of steady loss of strength, and of 40 pounds in weight, I was forced to abandon myself entirely to the apparently impossible task of regaining my health Lack of means to which I had always been accustomed made the task even more hopeless. Six months ago, however, my patience was rewarded, and I felt myself strong enough to resume work. Wishing to live in the open air as much as possible, for the time being at least, I took a trip to Central America as agent and purser of the Spanish American Steamship Line of Ohio, McAllister & Co. After the first trip the sharp competition of the Pacific Mail forced the new line from the water. I am now contemplating settling upon the coast of Guatemala, and if nothing better offers shall depart in a few months. In the meantime I have been engaged by the recently formed Boating Association of Berkely to select and coach a crew for an intercollegiate eight-oared race between her and Leland Stanford University. Having always been keenly interested in boating, and feeling that the race would be a novelty on the Pacific Coast that would greatly benefit both Universities, I gladly undertook the duties of coach. The only articles I have published are what was inappropriately called by the editors, "The Evolution of Form in College Rowing," March and April numbers of Outing, 1889, and in the Examiner of a date I do not recall, a long critical comment on Pacific Coast Athletics. I am still a bachelor with a brilliant prospect of remaining one.

CARL AUGUST DE GERSDORFF.

Is practicing law in New York. For a time he was in the office of Evarts, Choate & Beaman, but now is with Seward, DoCosta & Guthrie.

Permanent address, 29 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.

BANCROFT LANE GOODWIN.

"Left W. B. Clarke & Co., April, 1891. Went to work then with H. M. Plimpton & Co., [book binders], 234 Congress St., Boston. Have been connected with the business end of literature—publishing, selling and manufacturing—ever since graduation." Resides in Newton, where he is a member of the Eight o'clock Club. The other questions he answers in the negative.

Permanent address, 234 Congress St., Boston, and 3 Orchard St., Newton.

JOHN HENRY GRAY.

The three years since I last wrote you have passed swiftly away, and I find myself once more in the traces in America. The history of the intervening period may be briefly told. In the autumn of 1890, after a very happy and successful year spent at Halle, I went to Paris and remained for seven months. Had a glorious time and came away with a very much less exalted idea of the French higher educational system than that with which I went. My impression of the Ecole Libre des Sciences Politiques is, that it is a capital institution for training Frenchmen for their civil service, but the work done there can hardly be ranked as of University grade. After leaving Paris I spent perhaps the most profitable semester of my European stay at Vienna. In the autumn of 1891 I made a three months' trip through Italy, Greece, Turkey and the Balkan States, paying my respects for a second time to Buda-Pesth and Vienna on my way back to Berlin. The winter of 1891-2 I spent at Berlin, taking my Doctor's degree at Halle in May. From Berlin I made a hurried trip to Switzerland, Paris, London and Oxford, and arrived in New York in time to celebrate the "glorious Fourth." I am now settled as Professor of Political Science at Northwestern University, and am Chairman of the Committee of the World's Congress on Political and Social Science. Am Editor-in-chief of "Northwestern University Record," the new quarterly official publication of the University. Have published the following: 1, "The German Act Against Socialism" (note), The Quarterly Journal of Economics, April, 1890; 2, "The German Economic Association, Verein fur Sozialpoli- tik," Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, January, 1891 ; .3. "Die Stellung der Privaten Belenchtungsgesellshaften zur Stadt und Staat," Jean, 1893. I refrain from a list of the societies to which I belong, insomuch as they are all open societies.

My permanent address is, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

WILLIAM TRAVERS GRAY.

Nothing has happened to me since your last report of any interest. I have been admitted to the bar since then in New York City, and have spent my winters in New York and my summers abroad. I have joined two clubs since then, the Racquet and Tennis, of New York, and Princess Club of London.

My permanent address is the Union Club, New York.

CHARLES INGALLS GIDDINGS.

Since leaving the Law School in June, 1890, I have been practicing law in Boston and Beverly, residing in the latter place with my parents. My Boston office was at first with Heman W. Chaplin, Esq., with whom I remained until February, 1892. During this period I went into partnership with Roland W. Boyden of Beverly (Harvard, class of 1885), doing business principally in Beverly. In February, 1892, Mr. Boyden and I opened an office in the Exchange Building, Boston, where we have been ever since. Am unmarried. Am a member of Boston Athletic Association. Have dabbled to a limited extent in the politics of my native town. Have been chosen to the proud position of member of the Democratic town committee—other honors have passed me by. I graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1890, with degrees of LL. B. and A. M. Wrote a short article on "Restrictions upon the Use of Land," which was published in the April number of the Harvard Law Review. The only trip of any length, was a trip up the Mistassini river for about a hundred miles north of Lake St. John, in August of 1892. I can think of nothing else of especial interest at the present moment.

Business address, 512 Exchange Building, Boston; permanent address, Beverly, Mass.

HARRIS GRAFTON HALE.

Graduated from Andover Theological Seminary, June 11, 1891. On September 1, 1891, was married to Miss Lavinia Browne, daughter of Ezra L. Browne of Salem, Mass. On September 3, 1891, was ordained to the Christian ministry, and installed as pastor of the First Congregational Church of Warren, Mass. Now in the pastorate at that place.

Permanent address, 17 Mt Vernon St., Salem, Mass.

FRANKLIN ELMER ELLSWORTH HAMILTON.

Has made no reply. I learn, however, that he has studied theology at Boston University, and is now settled over a church of his own.

ALPHEUS SUMNER HARDY.

From the fall of 1887 to June, 1888, was in Chicago, in the wholesale boot and shoe business. From September, 1888, with the New England Telephone Company. September 1, 1889, was appointed manager of the Cambridge Telephone Exchange. "The only thing I have for you to add to your next report is that on January 1st 1892, I was appointed manager of the New England business of Otis Brothers & Co., manufacturers of elevators."

Permanent address, Puritan Club, Boston.

AUGUSTUS STORY HASKELL.

I believe I last reported from Colfax, Wash., in the spring of 1890. I left Colfax, October 1st, 1890, and went to Portland, Oregon, where I was assistant division engineer till December 1st of that year, when I left the employ of the Union Pacific and opened an engineering office in Portland; went into partnership in that business with Frank F. Gilham, of Portland, Oregon, under the firm name of Haskell & Gilham, in April, 1892, and have been engaged almost wholly in electric railroad work. Am at present in the East and expect to remain several months. Married in Boston, Mass., June 16, 1890, to Nina Smith Albee of Boston, daughter of John A. and Celia Albee. Have two children, both daughters: Edith Anna, born at Portland, Oregon, April 15th, 1891, and Catharine Lucy, born at Portland, Oregon, December 4, 1892. Member Appalachian Mountain Club. Crossed between Atlantic and Pacific coasts several times.

Permanent address, Roslindale, Mass.

MAURICE HECKSCHER.

Since my last communication to you in 1890, I have continued my membership in the firm of Richard Heckscher & Sons, in the iron business. On January 10th of this year, I was married in New York City to Miss Constance Spencer, daughter of Harvey Spencer and Sophia Edwards Spencer, and I am now living in the country at Rosemont, a suburb of Philadelphia. I am no longer a member of the University Club, but have joined the Rittenhouse Club, the Civil Service Reform Club, both of this city, and the Radnor Hunt Club. My traveling since my last letter to you has been limited to two hunting trips to Maine, and a sea trip to Newfoundland and Canada.

My permanent address will be until further notice, 238 South 3d St., Philadelphia, which is my place of business.

WILLIAM COLLINS HERRON.

Has made no reply.

WILLIAM ANDREW HERVEY.

At the date of the last report I was a resident of the city of churches and connected with The Eagle. I am still a Brooklynite and on the staff of that paper. Communications sent me, care of The Eagle, would be forwarded to me in case of change of residence.

LOUIS HICKS.

In June, 1891, I received the degree of Bachelor of Laws, cum laude, from the Harvard Law School. After camping in Adirondacks and making the tour of the lakes there during the summer of '91, with our friend and classmate, J. A. Bailey, I returned to the city of New York to enter upon the clerkship of one year, necessary for admission to the New York bar. After studying in the office of Messrs. Wing, Shondy & Putnam, and Messrs. Robinson, Biddle & Ward, the dense fog surrounding practice under the code began to clear away, and in November, 1892, I was admitted to the bar, and am now practicing law in the city of New York.

My permanent address is 150 Broadway, New York.

GEORGE HIGGINSON.

Replying to your recent circular letter, will say that after my last report I continued in the service of the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Memphis R. R. Co., at Kansas City, Mo., until September, 1892, when I resigned the charge of the Freight Claim Department of that company to accept the position of secretary and treasurer of the Metropolitan West Side Elevated R. R. Co. of Chicago, which position I now hold. Have resided in Chicago since Oct. 1st, 1892. On May 20th, 1891, I was married in New York to Miss Edyth Green Griswold of New York, daughter of George Griswold, deceased, and Lydia A. Griswold.

Permanent address, No. 1313 Monadnock Block, Chicago, Ill.

JOSEPH BAKER HILEMAN.

The Secretary has been unable to learn anything about him.

WILLIAM KARL HILLEBRAND.

I am still an employee in the law firm of Kittredge, Libby & Simmons, succeeding the firm of Kittredge & Libby, mentioned in my former report. I am also assistant secretary of The Union Savings Bank and Trust Company, a corporation doing business in this city. I have read over the "points offered by way of suggestion" in your letter and find that they apply to me only to the above extent.

CHARLES FRANK HOOVER.

After taking his degree in 1887, he attended the Harvard Medical School three years, then went to Europe. He studied in Vienna and Strasburg, 1891 and 1892; returned to Boston and received the degree of M. D. (Harv.) in June, 1892; returned to Vienna, where he is pursuing his medical studies.

Permanent address, Miamisburg, Ohio.

SILAS ARNOLD HOUGHTON.

Spent the summer of 1890 as House Physician at the Sea Shore Home, Winthrop. Took the Fourth Year at the Harvard Medical School, and received the degrees A. M. and M. D. in June, 1891. House Physician at the Boston Lying-in Hospital, July to November, 1891. Located in Brookline in February, 1892. Member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and the University Club of Boston.

Address, Cor. Beacon and Park Streets, Brookline, Mass.

MARK ANTHONY DEWOLFE HOWE.

My address after the end of June will be care of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 4 Park Street, Boston. I have just resigned from The Youth's Companion, and before settling down to new work am off for a six weeks' run to England. I can think of little or nothing else worth telling you about, and all this has happened so recently that it is still hard to regard it as history.

WILLARD BEAN HOWE.

Left the employ of Messrs. C. F. & G. W. Eddy in November, 1890, and removed from Lowell, Mass., to Burlington, Vt., where he has since resided and held the position of Business Manager of the Free Press Association, publishers of the Burlington Free Press. He married, October 21, 1890, Annie Howe Bean, daughter of the late Rev. David M. Bean and Fanny M. Hoyt, of Stamford, Conn. In 1892 he was elected Treasurer of the Free Press Association, a corporation which publishes both a daily and a weekly newspaper, and in connection has a large printing establishment, with a book bindery and a store for the sale of stationery and office supplies. David Willard Howe, son of above, was born June 22, 1892.

GORHAM HUBBARD.

Since the last report I have gone into the real estate business with Mr. Herbert Clark. I began this business on December 1st, 1891. On March 5th, 1891, I married Miss Sarah N. Henshaw, daughter of the late Francis Henshaw, of Francis Henshaw & Co. A daughter was born on December 23d, 1891, and named Katherine. Since my marriage have lived and shall continue to live at the same old place, 210 Beacon St. During the winter of 1891–1892 I built a large summer house at Campobello (near Eastport, Maine), which will be a permanent summer residence. As to clubs, I have given up belonging to some and now am a member of only "The Puritan" and "The University."

My permanent address is the same, 210 Beacon St., Boston.

CHARLES HUDSON.

I have nothing to add to my history. My occupation has been that of a practicing lawyer since graduation from the law school, with office at Rooms 29-30, Borden Block, Chicago. My residence has been Hinsdale, Ill., and will probably continue the same for some time to come. I have had no marriages, births, deaths, (or divorces) since last report. No politics, clubs, offices, degrees, books, pamphlets, addresses, or journeys worthy of mention.

ATHERTON NASH HUNT.

Since the publication of the last class report, I have been engaged in teaching at "Dr. Callisen's" preparatory school, at 131 West 43d St., New York City. Last October I matriculated as a student in the Columbia School of Law. From the intensely unvaried life of a schoolmaster there is little that I could add that would be of interest.

My permanent address is Weymouth, Mass.

BYRON SATTERLEE HURLBUT.

For three years I have been living quietly here at the college [Harvard] teaching. There you have the whole story—one in which I am deeply absorbed. I am not married; death has not come to me; I have joined only one or two clubs; I have taken no part in politics except to vote regularly; I have attained no new degree; I have published only a couple of shop articles on the teaching of English; I have spoken a few times before clubs and teachers' associations; and I have journeyed a little in New England, Nova Scotia and Cape Breton.—A very plain tale.

Permanent address, Lynn, Mass.

FREDERICK EVERETT HUGHES.

Since graduating I have spent most of my time traveling. I am not married and take only a mild interest in politics.

I am at present raising oranges in Riverside, Southern California.

THOMAS HUNT.

After graduating from college I entered the Law School in the fall of 1887. There I remained for the full course of three years, and received at graduation the degrees of LL. B. and A. M. During my third year in the Law School I was admitted to the bar in Boston, in January, 1890. In October, 1890, I began the practice of law in Boston in the office of Robert M. Morse, Jr.

Since October, 1891, I have been associated with Mr. Solomon Lincoln and Mr. Walter I. Badger, Rooms 716, 717 and 718 Exchange Building, 53 State Street, Boston, which is my permanent address. I have continued to reside in Cambridge, and am a member of the Colonial Club there.

FRANCIS CLEAVELAND HUNTINGTON.

Spent the college years 1890-91 at Cambridge as a member of the third-year class of the Harvard Law School, taking his degree in June, 1891. Since October, 1891, has been a clerk in the office of Parsons, Shepard and Ogden, New York, N. Y. Was admitted to the New York bar in November, 1892. Is going into partnership with T. N. Rhinelander '87, this coming autumn.

Home and permanent address, 804 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

LOUIS FISKE HYDE.

Received law degree in 1890 (Harvard) and in July of the same year was admitted to the Suffolk bar. From August, 1890, to December, 1891, was in the law office of Messrs. Hyde, Dickinson & Howe of Boston. In March, 1892, entered the law department and employ of the West End Street Railway Company, (No. 81 Milk St., Boston, Mass.), and still remain there. (28 February, 1893.)

Permanent address, Brookfield, Mass.

JAMES MARSH JACKSON.

I received a degree of A. M. from Harvard 1891, and of Ph. D. from Norwich University in '92. Last August I finished my services of House Physician at the Massachusetts General Hospital and in January, '93, graduated from the Boston Lying-in Hospital. I left in February for Europe and after a trip through Italy settled in Breslau, Germany, where I now am studying medicine. I am a member of the University Club.

FRANCIS RICHARD JONES.

Took my degree at the Harvard Law School in June, 1890, and went to Washington as private Secretary to Mr. Justice Gray for a year, when I returned to Boston and began the practice of law, in the toils of which I am still struggling.

Address, 273 Newbury St., Boston.

LESLY AUGUSTIN JOHNSON.

As when I last reported, I am with Messrs. Luce & Manning, wool commission merchants, and have spent some months of each year since 1890 in different parts of the West in their interests. At the time of our first triennial dinner I was in the West, and much to my regret shall be in the same place at the time of our second, this coming June. I have been abroad twice the past year, both times on business. In January, 1892, I went to London to attend the wool sales there, returning in March. Again in November, I went to England, and came back but a few weeks ago; during this time I was at two series of wool sales, each lasting a month, and between sales visited all the more important cities of Great Britain, Belgium and France.

Permanent address, care of Luce & Manning, 138 Federal St., Boston.

LEWIS JEROME JOHNSON.

Was at the Lawrence Scientific School, Cambridge, 1887-88, where he received the degree of C. E. in June, 1888. Sailed from Montreal for Liverpool, July 5, 1888, and travelled in the British Islands till October following. Entered the Polytechnic School in Zurich, remaining there one year. Travelled in Italy and France during the vacation. Was in the Ecole des Ponts et Chaussées, in Paris, from October, 1889, to February, 1890; then travelled in Egypt, Palestine, Turkey, Greece. Returned home in May. In June, 1890, was appointed Instructor in Engineering in Harvard University. Resigned this appointment in summer of 1892. Went to Chicago and is now in the employ of the Illinois Steel Co.

Permanent address, 417 Clark St., Evanston, Ill.

LOMBARD CARTER JONES.

I graduated from the Harvard Medical School in June, 1890. Received the appointment of First Surgical House Officer in the Boston City Hospital, January, 1891, and remained there until July 4, 1892. Went to Fall River in August and opened an office, but was not satisfied and came to Melrose, Dec. 1, 1892. Am not married. Joined the Massachusetts Medical Society in 1892.

My permanent address is Sandwich, Mass.

FRANK EDGE KAVANAGH.

Am engaged in teaching. As to what part I have taken in politics, I would reply that some work done in an earlier campaign led the Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate to encourage me to take part in the recent campaign, and I accordingly made a number of speeches, thirty of them at points in various sections of New York State, where I was sent by the Democratic Campaign Committee of the State of New York. My first speech was on September 5th at a mass meeting at the Green County fair grounds, of which I was elected chairman, four thousand being present, including a delegation of five hundred from New York City under the leadership of the county clerk of New York. This was the opening rally of the campaign in the interior of the State. My last speech was in the city of Syracuse the night before election. I was elected one of the four congressional delegates from Greene County to the district convention which nominated our present congressman, the Hon. Simon J. Schermerhorn. In this district each delegate represents a thousand Democratic voters. In non-political addresses I have been orator of the Day on Memorial Day four times, as well as on the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Grand Army of the Republic, twice on Arbor Day, and once on University Day I made an address in my capacity as a Regents' examiner of the University of the State of New York. I have given some addresses before teachers' institutes, and have repeated several times a lecture on James Russell Lowell.

Permanent address, Hunter, N. Y.

HIRAM GILLETT KEAYS.

I returned from Europe in August, 1890, worked in the Illinois National Bank of Springfield for one year, and have since been engaged in farming at Elkhart, Ill., which is my present address.

ROGER WOLCOTT KEEP.

Left the Youth's Companion in June, 1890, and in October entered the Harvard Law School, where I spent two years. After a four months' trip abroad I began work with the firm of Sprague, Morey, Sprague & Brownell, Buffalo.

My permanent address is Lockport, N. Y.

CHRISTIAN KESTNER.

A letter addressed to Reading, Pa., was forwarded to Denver, Colo., but returned marked "not found." I have no further information.

HENRY WILDER KEYES.

Has been farming in New Hampshire, Vermont, Kansas and Dakota since the last report. Is unmarried. Since 1890 he has been a member of the Legislature of New Hampshire as a Democrat. Spent one summer in Europe procuring cattle and sheep for his farms. "Few spare moments spent in coaching Harvard crews of 1890, 1891, and 1892."

Permanent address, North Haverhill, N. H.

GEORGE WASHINGTON KIMBALL.

My residence is at Arlington, Mass., and I am in business with the firm of W. W. Kimball & Co., provisions, Boston, Mass. On November 22nd, 1890, married Grace Octavia Emery, (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Emery of Portland, Me.,) at Portland, Me. Have one daughter, Ruth, born at Arlington Mass., October 23rd, 1891. Member of the University Club of Boston and Chamber of Commerce. Have travelled in Europe within the last two years.

My permanent address will be 40 North St., Boston, Mass

GEORGE PERKINS KNAPP.

Bitlis, Turkey, April 7, 1893.

Dear Classmates:—

Shortly after writing the last report I graduated at the Hartford Theological Seminary, May 8, 1890. On the 28th of the same month I was ordained as a foreign missionary at the First Congregational Church, Farmington, Conn., that church having desired to adopt me as their special missionary by contributing almost entirely to my support for at least five years. The principal parts at the service were taken by Dr. Judson Smith, Dr. Graham Taylor, Prof. Williston Walker and Rev. Geo. L. Clark, pastor of the church. Soon after my ordination I attended the annual meeting of the American Home Missionary Society at Saratoga. On June 13th I was among other missionaries who made short addresses at a farewell meeting in Park St. Church, Boston. Three Sundays in June I preached at Barre, Reading and Auburndale, Mass. July 2d I was married at Barre, Mass., to Miss Anna J. Hunt, daughter of Addison A Hunt, (since deceased) and Clara E. Hunt, of that town. My wife graduated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary in '86, and subsequently had charge of a mission school for two years in Salt Lake City. We left New York, July 19th, on board the "Anchoria" for Glasgow. In our trip through Europe we made a number of detours on our own account to visit points of interest. The main line of our route was from Edinburgh to Hull, across the North Sea to Rotterdam, up the Rhine to Mannheim, Heidelberg, Lucerne, Zurich, to Munich. Here we bade farewell to my wife's sister, Miss Carrie W. Hunt, who had accompanied us thus far, and returned to the United States, where she is now making addresses in behalf of Atlanta University. We went on to Salzburg, Linz, down the Danube to Vienna, on by rail to Buda Pesth, then to Philippopolis, where we spent a Sunday and Monday with the missionaries and had some chance of seeing the progress in the plucky little Bulgarian principality. We reached Constantinople the second week in September, and stayed there over two weeks waiting for others to join us and making preparations for our inland journey. During this time many interesting things were seen and a good introduction to Oriental life obtained. Among other things we saw His August Majesty, the Sultan, review his troops and attend his private mosque on Friday. On Sept. 27th we took an Austrian steamer for Trebezond. Here we were met by a missionary from Erzroom, who escorted us to that place, our party now consisting besides him of three young couples and a single lady. As far as Erzroom we travelled in an old wagon over a poorly kept road and passed the nights in dirty old khans. After stopping several days at Erzroom my wife and I left the others and journeyed on by horseback over roads no better than bridle paths, having with us a native attendant, muleteer and mounted policeman. For several nights we stopped in Koordish villages, where our quarters were in a dark elevated corner of a stable, but later we reached Armenian villages where a native preacher was located and found lodgings most as good as the old khans we had seen before. On Oct. 24th we reached Bitlis, and were treated to a very thrilling experience. According to Oriental custom the protestant Armenians came from half an hour to two hours out of the city to meet us. The school boys with their teachers formed in a row on each side of the road and sang a song of welcome. Later we found some forty school girls similarly arranged with flowers they had brought us and sweet song on their lips. It was like a cool, fragrant breeze from some oasis to the weary traveller to hear such singing in such a land. Soon we met the American missionaries, of whom were my parents whom I had not seen since their visit to the U. S. four years before. The streets were lined with friends and lookers on as we entered the city, and the American bell rang merrily as we approached the mission buildings. Many an early boyhood memory was stirred as I saw familiar scenes about me. The house was finally reached, and then followed weeks in which natives called bringing presents, pomegranates without number, chickens, loaves of sugar and lambs. But in the mean time we were settling down to work as fast as possible to learn the Armenian language, and I assumed in addition the routine work of attending to the accounts and business correspondence of the station. In May I made a rapid tour on horseback over the most important part of the field, which is about as large as New England, with the exception of Maine, and embraces about a hundred thousand Armenians for whom we are especially working, and one hundred and fifty thousand Koords and Turks. In June I attended as delegate the annual meeting of the Mission at Van. In the journey there and back I made a circuit around Lake Van, which is about fifteen miles N. E. of Bitlis. In October several American tourists on their way around the world visited us, among whom was Mr. L. D. Wishard of the Intercollegiate Y. M. C. A. Shortly before this a missionary with his family joined us after having had a visit in America, so that our force now comprises three families and two single ladies. March 8, '92, a daughter was born to us—Winifred Hunt. In July Mr. Cole and I went as delegates to the meeting at Harpoot, which is the educational center of the mission, having a College and Theological Seminary there. An unusually large delegation was present and many topics of special importance came up for discussion. I was the secretary of the meeting, and Rev. J. K. Brown, also of Harvard, was chairman. While there I preached in Armenian one Sunday, as I had also done the previous year at Van. My work here since the meeting, aside from occasional sermons, charge of the Sunday School, and part taken in various meetings, has been the management of the Boys' School, in which there are about a hundred pupils, one-fourth of whom are in the High School department. As a rule I have had one or two classes a day, usually in English. Much of my time has also been spent in trying to get the new permits that are now required by the government for these schools and for some twenty schools in the villages. It is a slow process, far from completion yet, and this intercourse with the Superintendent of Instruction has given me some chance to practice my Turkish, to which I have been giving considerable attention the past year. Some eight or ten weeks I have spent touring in the outer field at different times, travelling on horseback, on hand-sleds and on foot. Last fall the quarantines interfered considerably with our getting about, but the cholera did not reach the city, though there is little hope that it will keep away next summer. Should it come, it may prevent the annual meeting which we expect will be held here the last of May.

Yours truly,

George Perkins Knapp.

JOHN HOLLY KNAPP.

After leaving the Law School two years ago, I remained at home in Menomonie, Wis., attending to some affairs of my father's estate, during which time about a year ago, I was admitted to the Wisconsin bar. I changed my residence last January to St. Paul, then taking the State bar examination and being admitted to practice in Minnesota, and am now flying my shingle in 406 New York Life Building, as you see from my note heading. The thing which to me was the most momentous during the past three years, happened August 4, 1890, about one o'clock in the morning, when I was made the happy recipient and father of a bouncing boy, weighing about ten pounds. Since then no addition has been made to my paternal cares, which is probably fortunate, as my boy is said to strongly resemble me, and I am not anxious to incur further responsibility. Thus far, however, he has brought me far more happiness than care and is lively enough for two—I named him after his unworthy father, John Holly Knapp, Jr.; he was born in Warsaw, N. Y., August 4, 1890. I should very much like to meet you all at our next triennial dinner, but hardly feel now that I can get East at that time; however, if not present in person I certainly shall be with you in my thoughts and best wishes for one of the good old times which were always full of so much social enjoyment in '87.

My address is 9 Crocus Place, St. Paul, which is my present home, although any letters addressed to Menomonie, Wis., care of Knapp, Stout & Co., will always be forwarded.

AUGUSTUS SMITH KNIGHT

I completed studies at the Harvard Medical School in June, 1890; was House Officer at the Boston City Hospital from January, 1890, to July, 1891; married Abbie F. Knight of Charlestown, on October 1, 1891. Am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, Harvard Medical School Association, Boston City Hospital Club and of the University Club. Appointed Assistant in Clinical Medicine at Harvard Medical School 1892-3. Registrar at Boston City Hospital since April, 1892; Medical Examiner of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company since March, 1892.

My residence and office are at 295 Beacon St., Boston.

JOHN WEBSTER KNOWLES.

Since graduation has been in the employ of the Acushnet Mill Corporation, cotton manufacturers at New Bedford, Mass.

HAMILTON KUHN.

Graduated from Harvard Law School, June, 1890, A. M., LL. B.; passed examination to Suffolk County bar in the same month; entered the office of Hon. Edmund H. Bennett in Boston, January, 1891, and remained connected with it for somewhat over a year. Since then have occupied an office at 10 Tremont St., Room 52.

GEORGE EDGAR LADD.

From my point of view, the most important information I can give you is that I have two healthy sons, who deport themselves properly "anights." The elder, George Hammond, was born in Bradford, Mass., Aug. 12, 1890, the younger, Shaler, was born in Melrose Highlands, Mass., Sept. 24, 1892. In the fall of '91, I resigned my position as Assistant Geologist on the State Survey of Missouri, and came East to study at Harvard. I was, however, ill with typhoid fever many weeks, and accomplished but little during the year. Last summer I spent partly in Maine, doing geological work for the U. S. G. S., and partly in Massachusetts, collecting minerals, having been appointed agent to collect and arrange an exhibit of Massachusetts building stones and minerals for the World's Columbian Exposition. The past college year I have been busy with this work and with original research on the properties of clays, in the Graduate

Department at Harvard, where I have also been employed as Assistant in the Geological Department. After spending a year (1892) at Melrose Highlands, I moved to Cambridge, the first of January last and at present reside at No. 81 Oxford St., near the Museum, where I do most of my work. In 1890 I published in the bulletins of the Missouri Geological Survey, Reports on the Clays and Building Stones of St. Louis and St. Louis County, and also of the region about Kansas City.

Permanent address, Bradford, Mass.

WILLIAM WALTON LINN.

Began the practice of law in Chicago in June, 1892. Was called home on account of my father's sudden illness, to take charge of his business. At present have charge of land interests in Arizona in connection with the Arizona Construction Company of Peoria, Ill., and the Gila Bend Reservoir and Irrigation Company. And have also mining interests in Colorado. Am not satisfied and never will be till I resume the practice of law, though am making plenty of money.

Permanent address, Decatur, Ill.

EVERETT STARR LITCHFIELD.

My history is about the same, with the exception that I hold no position now except that of Secretary and Assistant Treasurer of the Massachusetts Benefit Life Association, and give my whole time to it. I spent the summer again last year in California.

Permanent address, Wollaston, Mass.

HENRY JARVIS LIVERMORE.

In November, 1891, I entered the employ of the Thomson-Houston (now The General) Electric Company, as an assistant in the Patent Department. At the present time I am engaged in preparing specifications for the Patent Office, or in other words assisting in the prosecution of applications for patents.

My only connection with politics was during the State campaign of 1891, when I acted as Mr. Josiah Quincy's amanuensis at the headquarters of the Democratic State Committee. On August 2, 1890, my second daughter, Gwendolen Jarvis, was born.

MYRON AUGUSTUS LOCHMAN.

I am teaching in New York, tutoring, and, they tell me, with fair success. I am not married, have no children, and belong to few clubs or societies. In short, I am not famous in any way whatever. I shall hope to come to our dinner and there renew the pleasant friendships of Cambridge, and see, as one outside the battle, the heroes who are to make "'87" famous—I wish I were one.

Permanent address, 34 Wendell St., Cambridge.

HOWARD AUGUSTUS LOTHROP.

I completed the four years' course at the Harvard Medical School in 1891, receiving the degrees of M. D. and A. M., and thereafter served two years as Surgical House Officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Since then my time has been spent studying medicine at Vienna and London, with the exception of a pleasure trip through Switzerland and Italy. Am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and was Vice-President of the Boylston Medical Society for '90-'91.

At present my address is 110 North Avenue, North Cambridge, Mass.

CHARLES ELIOT LOUD.

I concluded my travels in Europe and returned to America in October, 1890. Since then I have resided in Boston and have been engaged in the real estate business, entering the office of William Minot, Jr., and remaining with him something over a year before beginning an active brokerage business in the office of S. Parkman Blake. The only break in the routine of business was a trip of three weeks to the South in the spring of 1891, when I visited with much interest many of the small "boom" towns of the valley of Virginia, as well as some of the larger cities as far south as Atlanta. In other respects I have nothing to record. My clubs are yachting, boating or social. I am not married, nor have I taken part in politics or appeared in any way before the public.

My permanent address is 75 State St., Boston.

LINN LUCE.

I am still engaged in the newspaper clipping business with my brother, Robert Luce, '82, at 68 Devonshire Street, Boston. My career since graduation has been uneventful. Have done no travelling to speak of, have taken no part in politics, belong to very few societies and in fact can write nothing of any interest about myself.

My permanent address is still Waltham, Mass.

EDWARD IRVING MANLEY

You may say of me that I have been teaching in Illinois. [As principal of the High School at Bloomington.]

My present address is Normal, Ill.

FREDERICK HUBBELL MARVIN

Has not been heard from.

FRED SUMNER MEAD.

Purchased a seat in Boston Stock Exchange, October, 1891, and went into business for myself, January 1, 1893, admitted as partner George S. Baldwin. Office at 7 Exchange Place. Married on June 11, 1890, in Medford, Mass., Katherine Rand, daughter of John C. and Kathrine B. Rand. Has resided since marriage on Walnut St., Brookline.

Permanent address, 7 Exchange Place, Boston.

EDWIN JOSEPH MEEKS.

Studied medicine in New York. The Secretary is informed that he is married and has a daughter, and that he is now practicing in Stamford, Conn.

FRANCIS MICHAEL.

MORTON DAVIS MITCHELL.

In the summer of 1890 I spent six months on the Pacific coast from Monterey to Blaine, but principally in Seattle, where the most important event was a big Harvard dinner—the first ever held in Washington State, I believe, at the Rainier Club. The '87 men present were Livingston Stedman the lawyer, Briggs the smelter, Hall the ship-builder, Wiestling the gold miner, and Oakes of the Steamship line. Oscar Zinkhiersen, the financier of Spokane, couldn't come. I came back to Washington in the autumn, and on January 22, 1891, was married in St. John's church, Washington, to Elizabeth Patterson Ladd of San Francisco. Went abroad immediately and spent a year over there, keeping house in Venice most of the time. Came back in November, 1891, and took the present Washington home. Spent the winter here and then went abroad again in May, 1892. First made a brief trip through Northern Germany, Berlin, Hamburg and the like, then sailed across the North Sea to Norway and rode 400 miles across country in an open pony trap to Christiania. Some weeks in Sweden, on the Gota canal and in Stockholm, then across the Baltic to Finland and afterward St. Petersburg. After a month in Russia returned from Moscow, through Vienna and Buda Pesth to Venice. After two months' rest in the pame palazzo (Venetian for ordinary 400-year old house) came back to Washington last December. Have written only some political letters and magazine articles. Only additional club is the American Academy of Sciences, which isn't a club.

I would like to say that a degree with '87 is worth its worry if for nothing more than the friendships it makes the world over. All the way from Russia to Vancouver I have run against '87 men in the pleasantest way possible.

My address is always the same—Metropolitan Club, Washington, D. C.

GEORGE AUSTIN MORRISON, Jr.

Have been practicing law since 1890.

My residence and permanent address is 691 Fifth Ave., New York City.

JOHN LOVETT MORSE.

Entered the Boston City Hospital as House Physician, July 1, 1890, and remained there until Jan. 1, 1892. During the next four months was assistant in the department for diseases of the nervous system at the Boston Dispensary, and did considerable orthopedic work at the Boston Children's Hospital. Was House Physician at the Boston Lying-in Hospital from May 1, '92, to Sept. 2, '92, and began practice in Boston in October, '92. Received the degrees of A. M. and M. D. (four years' course) from Harvard in '91. Am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, Harvard Medical School Association, and University Club of Boston. At present am Registrar of the Carney Hospital, District Physician at the Boston Dispensary, and assistant in the surgical out-patient department of the Children's Hospital. Have published several articles in the Medical Journals.

Present address, 149 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.

GEORGE SALTONSTALL MUMFORD.

Began business life July 10, 1887, with the "C. & C." Electric Motor Company of New York, of which he is general manager and treasurer. Under date of March 16, 1893, he writes:

"I have nothing to add to the information you gave about me in the last report.

You might change my address to The University Club, Madison Square, New York."

FRANK NELSON NAY.

Since September, 1891, I have been practising law by myself at 209 Washington Street, Boston, with a satisfactory degree of success. Am a member of the New England Tariff Reform League and the Boston Bar Association, as well as several social organizations. Have made but two public addresses to date, both on political topics. Know of nothing else of interest.

Address 209 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

FRANK WALTER NICOLSON.

I continued in my position as Instructor in Latin at Harvard during the year 1890-91, and was reappointed for the following year; but during the summer of 1891 I accepted what I considered a better offer from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., and have served in the Latin department there for the past two years. I have never regretted my decision; for though I miss many things which make life at Harvard attractive to the student, notably the library, yet Wesleyan is a progressive College, my work is thoroughly congenial, the Faculty, mostly young men, comprise a charming circle of acquaintance, and Middletown presents more attractions for residence than any other town or city I know of. I was married Sept. 9, 1891, to Louise Elizabeth Wright, daughter of Rev. James Rowe and Mary H. (Close) Narraway, of St. John, New Brunswick. Since the last class report, I have published the following: (1) Synopsis of a paper on "Greek Modes of Hair-cut," read before the American Philological Association in July, 1890, (Proc. Am. Phil. Assoc., Vol. XXI.) (2) An article on "Greek and Roman Barbers" in the Harvard Class nal Studies, Vol. II. (3) An article on "The Use of Herde, Edepol and Enastor by Plautus and Terence," in the current number (Vol. IV.) of the same journal, and (4) and an edition of the Pharmio of Terence, with stage directions, adapted for use in sight reading (Boston, Ginn & Co., 1891.) I am also editor of the Supplement to the Wesleyan University Alumni Record.

My address is 9 Park Place, Middletown, Conn.

WALTER OAKES.

Is still with the Puget Sound and Alaska Steamship Company. He was married May 24, 1893, to Mary Beekman Taylor of St. Paul, Minn. He is a member of the Union Club of Tacoma, Wash., and of the Union League Club of New York.

Permanent address, Tacoma, Wash.

OTIS BRIGGS OAKMAN.

My life during the past three years has been almost entirely uneventful. I still hold the position in Thayer Academy which I occupied at the time of the last report. I have kept my interest in Masonry and am a member of Boston Commandry of Knights Templar. During the summer of '92 I took a trip with the Commandery to Denver to attend the twenty-fifth triennial Templar Conclave, which was held in that city. While in Colorado stops were made at Pueblo, Leadville, Manitou and Glenwood Springs, giving an opportunity to see some of the great silver mines of the state, as well as to enjoy the magnificent mountain scenery. During the last year I have been taking, in addition to my school work, a course at Harvard on the History of Education.

My permanent address remains as it has been since graduation, North Mansfield, Mass.

ARTHUR HENRY OSGOOD.

Took the course at the Harvard Dental School, from which he received the degree of D. M. D. in June, 1889. Has since been with H. D. Osgood & Son, 25 Tremont Street, Boston. Was married June 27, 1888, to Miss Jennie L. Merrill, of Roxbury, Mass., and spent three months in Europe on a wedding trip. Has two sons, Herman Ashton Osgood, born March 11, 1890, and Merrill White Osgood, born Jan. 31, 1892. Member of Central Club, Somerville.

Residence, 12 Highland Ave., Somerville.

ROBERT TREADWELL OSGOOD.

Dear Classmates:

The pleasure of hearing from you in the Report exacts of me the honorable due of writing a few words of myself, else I should now hardly venture on. After graduating at Andover Seminary in June, '91, with the rest of our "Apostolic Eleven" (as Dr. Smyth termed the class) I was ordained and installed in the pastorate of the Congregational church in Milton, N. H. This is a typical little New England place, whose people, almost to a man Yankees, live by working in the factories there. I remained there hard at work for a year and a half, and at New Years I came home to make a practical study of social and philanthropic forces in Boston preparatory for further ministerial work next fall. At Easter I announced my engagement to Miss Charlotte Thorndike Sibley, daughter of Edward Sibley, Esq., of Belfast, Maine. Miss Sibley is a graduate of Wellesley, class of '91, and is now pursuing a course at Yale in the Graduate Department for the degree of Ph. D. Very cordially your classmate,

ROBERT T. OSGOOD.

Permanent address, 60 Buckingham St., Cambridge, Mass.

EDWARD CHRISTOPHER PALMER.

I remained in the general freight office of the C., B. & Q. in Chicago, (as stated in last report) until the first of last December, when I was appointed assistant general freight agent of the Iowa Central Railway, in charge of the freight department, there being no general freight agent. The road is small (500 miles long), running from Peoria Ill., to the Iowa-Minnesota line. Marshalltown is our headquarters, but I am here comparatively little and get back to Chicago about once in ten days on an average. Ever since graduation I have made annual vacation trips to Cape Cod, where I still keep a good boat, and last year Albert Perkins and I went through Canada together. I am unmarried and belong to no clubs worth mentioning.

The only permanent address I can give you is 89 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

FRANCIS STERNE, PALMER.

Since 1890, resident of New York City; occupation, writer for periodicals.

Permanent address, Bailey Ave., Plattsburgh, N. Y.

FRANK CLAFLIN PARMENTER.

I have nothing new to write you since the last class report. Have one child born Sept. 9, 1890, at Gloucester, a boy, Derick Choate.

Permanent address, Gloucester, Mass.

CHARLES SHARPLESS PASTORIUS.

Am still working at architecture. Travelled in Europe, (mostly in England and France) from May till September, 1891. Entered the office of Carrère & Hastings, architects, New York City, shortly after my return, and left them in September, 1892, to come to Colorado Springs. Am a member of the Harvard Club of New York.

Permanent address, Box 27, Colorado Springs, Colo.

HARRY ERNEST PEABODY,

After graduating from the Yale Divinity school in '91 I came immediately to this rough western town, where I have been ever since as pastor of the Congregational church. All the problems of the new West are here to be solved, immigration, the Railroad problem, the labor problem, whiskey, gambling and prostitution. I feel that I stand at a good point to build not only men, but the state, by the grace of God. In the year and a half my church has grown from 30 to 85 members. I am still unmarried, and my only journey was a summer trip through the Colorado mountains. The only classmate I have seen has been Litchfield, whom with his wife, I unexpectedly met at the train. This is a station on the regular Santa Fe Route to California. I should be glad to meet any of the boys at the train, as it always stops ten minutes, or to have them stop a day or two and share my bachelor's quarters. I am at present assisting in a municipal campaign against the saloons and gambling houses. I enjoy my work thoroughly, and wish more of our class were in it. I have succeeded in starting a football enthusiam among the boys here. Last Thanksgiving day we had a better game between the High school and the Academy here than I have sometimes seen on Jarvis field.

Permanent address, Trinidad, Colo.

LINCOLN REA PEABODY.

During the last three years little has happened to me which would be of interest to anyone. In October, 1890, I was sent on business to the eastern end of Cuba, but stayed there only a very short time. In February, 1891, I was transferred to the New York office of the firm in which I was employed, and I have remained there since.

Permanent address, 58 New St., New York, N. Y.

JOSEPH HALL PEARL.

Since the date of my last report I have resided in Bradford, Mass. After I finished my labors as special agent for the Eleventh Census. I resumed the study of law and was admitted to the Essex bar in December, 1891, and since that time have been engaged in a general law practice, being connected with the firm of Abbott & Pearl of Haverhill, Mass. Am not married. I have joined the Pentucket Club and the Fortnightly Club, one social and the other literary, and before the last named club have read an address entitled "Some Pre-Columbian Discoverers of America." As during most of my life I have been much interested in politics, have been a member of the Republican Town Committee all of the time and worked for the success of that party. As to offices, I have been elected moderator of a number of our New England town meetings, and as a member of the School Committee.

My permanent address is Bradford, Mass.

ALBERT THOMPSON PERKINS.

In 1891 the mileage of railroads under the immediate jurisdiction of the general freight office of which I was chief clerk was more than doubled, and the office correspondingly enlarged. Otherwise, after 1890, no important change took place in my life until December, 1892, when I was appointed General Agent of the C., B. & Q. and other Burlington route lines, at Hannibal, Mo. As a city, Hannibal is a good deal of a change from Chicago and St. Louis, but it is a railroad point of some importance and I find it a pleasant place to live in. Altogether we have had five '87 men connected with the C., B. & Q., but I believe I am the only one left now, Palmer being the last one to leave us. My only journeys have been a few hurried but pleasant trips with E. C. Palmer through parts of this country and Canada, during our short summer vacations. Am a member of the Pastime Athletic Club of St. Louis, and of the Harvard Clubs of St. Louis and Chicago.

HENRY GROVER PERKINS.

I have no change of interest to report since publication of last report. Am practicing law, office 82 Devonshire St., Boston.

My residence is No. 39 Hartford St., Dorchester

SAMUEL WELSH PERKINS.

My residence since I last reported has been Tacoma, Wash., where my business interests are; but I have been East every winter and have spent most of the time in New York. I have one child, a daughter, Constance Welsh Perkins, born in Tacoma, October 4, 1890. My wife died in New York, January 27, 1892. I am a member of the University, Racquet and Tennis, and Calumet Clubs of New York, and the Union Club of Tacoma.

My permanent address is 41 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

WALTER SAMUEL PINKHAM.

In June of 1890, with a number of other members of '87, I graduated from the Harvard Law School, receiving the degrees of LL. B. and A. M. The following week I took the Suffolk Bar examinations and was duly admitted to practice. After taking a vacation during the summer, a small part of which was spent among the maintains of Tennessee, I entered the law office of Joseph R. Smith, Esq., at No. 5, Tremont St., Boston, Mass. I remained with him until April of 1891, when I opened offices on my own account. From that time to the present I have been practicing at my profession with offices at No. 5, Tremont St., Boston, and Wollaston, Mass., or as it is sometimes called, Ward 5 in the City of Quincy. The part I have taken in politics has been confined to the duties incident to membership on the Quincy Republican Ward and City Committee.

My permanent address is Wollaston, Mass.

ALFRED ARTHUR POEY.

Is practicing law in New York City where he began practice in April 1892. Is unmarried. He is a member of the Harvard Club of New York and the University Athletic Club.

Permanent address, Harvard Club, New York, N. Y.

WILLIAM SEARS POPPLETON.

Since '87's last report I have lived in Omaha and practiced law as a member of the firm of A. J. and W. S. Poppleton. On the 17th of October, 1888, I was married to Charlotte H. Kennedy of Omaha. I have a son, Andrew Jackson Poppleton, born October 5th, 1889. I am not a member of any clubs or societies except one local club. Have taken no special part in politics. Have held no important offices. Have published no books, taken no trip abroad, delivered no set addresses before public meetings and have received no college or other degrees.

My permanent address is 1056 South 29th Street, Omaha.

ALBERT BAILEY POTTER.

Has been in the banking and brokerage business in Boston.

Permanent address, 89 State St.

MILFORD SEWARD POWER.

For three years after graduation, taught at Chauncy Hall School, Boston. In October, '90, was appointed to teach sciences at Roxbury Latin School, where he is still teaching. On June 30, '91, was married to Miss Velina Smith, daughter of James and Louisa (Morse) Smith of Dorchester.

His address is, Welles Ave., Dorchester, Mass.

WHITMORE PRESTON.

I returned to Boston to live in the fall of '90, but continued in the same business at North Billerica, until early in '92, when I was ordered abroad on account of ill-health, and have been travelling with my wife ever since.

Permanent address, 13 Chestnut St., Boston.

CHARLES SEWARD PROCTOR.

Is still with John Carter & Co., Boston, wholesale paper dealers, and resides at Lowell. Oct. 16, 1890, he was married to Ida Frances Holden, daughter of Horace G. and Ruth B. Holden, of Nashua, N. H. He has a son, Horace Seward, born at Lowell, July 20, 1891.

Permanent address, P. O. Box 384, Lowell, Mass.

FRANK INGERSOL PROCTOR.

After leaving the Harvard Medical School, I was for two years Interne at the Massachuetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, Boston. Was married Dec. 17, 1891, to Miss Mary L. Stevens, of Boston. After leaving the Eye and Ear Infirmary, I began practice as an occulist, at 259 Beacon St. Was appointed Assistant Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Carney Hospital, So. Boston, and Assistant to the Ophthalmic Surgeons, Boston City Hospital. Resigned in September, 1892, and in November I was appointed Assistant Ophthalmic Surgeon to the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, which position I now hold. Have received the degrees Harvard M. D. and A. M.

My present address is 259 Beacon St., Boston.

GEORGE JACOB PUTNAM.

Up to March, 1893, I continued in the leather business with my father. On March 1, 1893, formed co-partnership under the firm name of Clement, Parker & Co., with H. Clement, E. Clement and F. W. Parker, Bankers & Brokers and members of the Boston Stock Exchange. On October 15, 1891, was married by Dr. Stopford W. Brooke, assisted by Rev. Dr. Duryea, to Miss Helen Huntington White, daughter of Joseph H. and Ellen D. (Tewksbury) White. The wedding took place at Mr. White's residence "Elmhurst" in Brookline. A daughter, Helen Putnam, was born on Feb. 14, 1893. My clubs are: University and Country of Boston, and Harvard of New York. Have taken no part in politics, taken no extended journeys, have published no books nor made any public addresses.

My address is 26 Devonshire St., and my residence is Pine Crest, Boylston St., Brookline.

GEORGE TOTTEN QUINBY

I have heard nothing from him, but understand that he is in Seattle, Wash.

AUGUSTUS NEAL RANTOUL.

Residence in Salem one-half the year and in Beverly the other half. I continue in the practice of Architecture as last reported, having gone into it immediately upon leaving College and have been now a member of the firm of Andrews, Jaques & Rantoul for four years. A member of the Puritan Club, Essex County Club and Eastern Yacht Club. Appointed and commissioned Captain and Quartermaster Second Brigade Massachusetts Volunteer Militia in April, 1893. Have taken no journeys of importance except the travelling required in business, which has carried me to the principal cities between Boston and Colorado two or three times a year.

Permanent address, Salem, Mass.

CHARLES WILLIAM RANTOUL.

Since your last report I have been in the same business and with the same concern, Fairchild Paper Co., and I still live in Beverly. October 15th, 1891, I was married to Caroline Endicott of Detroit, at that city. She is a daughter of Charles and Caroline (Leach) Endicott. December 29th, 1892, our first child was born, her name is Constance Endicott Rantoul. Since our last report I have joined no clubs, nor have I touched politics. I have taken no journeys more extended than to Cincinnati, Chicago, Savannah, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Three years ago this June I was prevented from attending the triennial dinner by a severe illness, typhoid fever, which kept me in bed three months and away from active business for two months longer. Other than this my health has been good since graduation.

FRANKLIN REMINGTON.

Following the points which you have outlined I would say that, 1st, I am living at No. 63 Pearson Street, Chicago, Ill.; that I am engaged in general contracting. I came here in July, 1891, and entered into the general construction business in November of the same year, in partnership with my brother, under the firm name of Remington & Co., office at No. 100 Washington Street. 2d, I am not married. 3d, Consequently have no children. 5th, I am not a member of any club, other than the Harvard Club of this city. 6th, Have taken no part in politics. 7th, Have filled no offices of honor or trust, but hope to fill an office of profit before leaving the city. 9th, Have published no books, pamphlets or articles. 10th, Have addressed no public meetings, other than those which my business has called me to. 11th, I gave up travelling for pleasure when I came here. 12th, My permanent address is No. 100 Washington Street, Chicago, Ill. 13th, Since the last Triennial Catalogue my life has been a very uneventful one, being confined strictly to keeping my nose to the grind-stone. The members of the class may be interested to know that for the past six months I have been engaged in construction work at the World's Fair grounds at Jackson Park, having built the Elevated Electric Railroad upon which most of them will ride when they come to the Fair next summer, also one or two of the buildings there.

PAUL REVERE REYNOLDS

Leaving Cambridge in 1891, I came to New York and during the winter of 1891-2, I did literary work for two or three papers, more especially for the "Churchman." Since August

1, 1892, I have been the agent of Cassell & Co., Limited, of London, in this country.

My permanent address is care John P. Reynolds, Jr., 97 Pearl Street, Boston.

THOMAS NEWBOLD RHINELANDER.

Is practising law in New York.

FRED BALL RICE.

There is not much to add to my history since the first triennial report of the class. My residence and permanent address is still at Quincy, Mass. For the past two years have been a member of the firm of Rice & Hutchins. To questions 2, 3 and 4, I can say nothing. Am a member of the Boston Athletic Association and the University Club. My only part in politics has been to run for the Quincy City Council twice on the Democratic ticket; was beaten both times.

EDGAR JUDSON RICH.

I was admitted to the bar of Suffolk County, Massachusetts, in January, 1891, and graduated from the Harvard Law School in June, 1891, with the degrees of LL.B. and A. M. During the summer of 1891 I was general manager of the Glen House and Glen House Stage Lines, White Mountains, N. H. In the fall I entered the law office of Hon. John Lowell, and in January, 1892, opened an office of my own. In March, 1892, I published a pamphlet entitled, "A Fundamental Principle of Political Economy, an Examination of a so-called Economic Fallacy." Hon. David A. Wells, Professor A. T. Hadley of Yale and others, wrote me very favorable criticisms of it, while Professor F. W. Taussig of Harvard, Professor J. Laurence Laughlin of Chicago University and others failed to find anything but error and fallacy in it. In November, 1892, I addressed a political meeting, held in Tremont Temple, Boston, under the auspices of the Harvard Republican Club.

Address 517 Exchange Building, Boston.

JOHN WALLACE RIDDLE.

Has not replied to letters sent him.

ROYAL ROBBINS.

Reports that he is still of the firm of Robbins, Appleton & Co., Boston, and is a member of the Puritan and University, and of the Eastern, Beverly, and Corinthian Yacht Clubs. He has now two children—Royal Elisha, 2d, born March 11, 1890, and a daughter born March 8, 1893. He has taken an active part in politics, representing Ward 11, Boston, in the Common Council in 1892, and the same district during the present year in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, where he has served as a member of the committee on cities.

Permanent address, 403 Washington St., Boston.

ALFRED BROOKES ROBINSON.

In November, 1890, I was admitted to the bar of the State of New York and have been practising law since, having an office at 71 Broadway. Am an original member of the University Athletic Club and a member of the Society Sons of the Revolution and the Society of Medical Jurisprudence. During the summer of 1891 I travelled extensively in Europe.

Permanent address, 53 W. 48th St., New York, N. Y.

BENJAMIN LINCOLN ROBINSON.

At the time of the last class report I had just taken a position as assistant in the Harvard Herbarium. This position I held from May, 1890, until the following year, when I was obliged to give up my work, as my health had been temporarily impaired by constantly handling specimens treated with arsenic. The summer of that year I spent partly at my home in Bloomington, Ill., and partly in a trip to the far West. This journey was made under exceptionally enjoyable circumstances in the company of my two elder brothers. After brief stops in Chicago

Minneapolis and St. Paul, we proceeded to Winnipeg and thence westward over the Canadian Pacific to Vancouver, breaking the journey at the most attractive parts of the Rocky Mountains and Selkirk Mountains. From Vancouver we went southward as far as Monterey, visiting points of chief interest, and then returning eastward by Colorado. My summer outing restored my health so that I was able to accept a renewed appointment as assistant in the Herbarium, where the use of arsenic in the preparation of specimens has been given up. In December of 1891 Dr. Sereno Watson, Curator of the Herbarium, was taken with the illness which later proved fatal. From that time on the management of the Herbarium devolved upon me; and in June, 1892, I was appointed Curator. Beside the direction of the work at the Herbarium and in the Botanical Library connected with it, the chief duty of my position is the continuation of the Synoptical Flora of North America, a work begun by Dr. Asa Gray and carried on by Dr. Watson. Its completion will necessarily be a matter of several years. Quite aside from my botanical work, I have been for the past two years Instructor in Scientific German in Harvard College.

To answer categorically some of your questions, I belong to the following societies: American Academy of Arts and Sciences; American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Academy of Political Science; California Botanical Club; American Folk Lore Society, and Deutscher Verein of Harvard College. My publications for the last three years have been: "Two New Plants from the Cascade Mountains," Botanical Gazette, Feb., 1891; "Two Undescribed Species of Apodanthes," ibid, March, 1891; "Note on the Varieties of Silphium laciniatum," ibid, April, 1891; a series of botanical reviews in the American Journal of Science during the absence of Dr. Goodale, the botanical editor; "Descriptions of New Plants, chiefly Gamopetalæ collected in Mexico by C. G. Pringle in 1889-'90," Proc. Amer. Acad., July, 1891; "New Plants collected in Western Mexico by W. G. Wright," Bot. Gaz., Dec., 1891;

"Descriptions of New Plants collected in Mexico by C. G. Pringle in 1890-'91, with Notes upon a Few Other Species." Proc. Am. Acad., Nov., 1892.

JAMES HARVEY ROBINSON.

After spending one year in graduate study at Harvard, I devoted the three succeeding years to study in foreign Universities. The winter semester of 1888-9 I spent in Strasburg, the next two in Freiburg,i Br., where I received the degree of Ph. D. multa cum laude, April, 1890. I then went to Northern Germany making a special study of the German Constitution. The fall we spent in Italy and the winter in Paris where I pursued my work in Modern Continental History. After a sojourn of some weeks in England I returned to the United States to accept the position of Lecturer in European History in the University of Pennsylvania. In addition to my work in the university, I had, as associate editor of the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the main responsibility in the management of this publication. In 1892 I was appointed Associate Professor of European History in the same institution, and am at present lecturing on the Renaissance and Reformation and the History of Europe since the outbreak of the French Revolution. I have published a paper on "The Original and Derived Features of the Constitution of the United States," for which I received the Toppan Prize in 1888, and the German Bundesrath, (Pub. of the Univ. of Penn.) besides short articles and reviews. September 1, 1887, I was married to Miss Grace Woodville Read, daughter of Charles Edward and Sarah Granger Read of Bloomington, Illinois.

Permanent address, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Penn.

THOMAS JOHNS ROBINSON.

Since the last class report I have been pursuing the study and practice of medicine. Served as Medical Interne at the Boston City Hospital from July, 1890, to January, 1892, and as House Physician at the Boston Lying-in Hospital from March to July, 1892. Received degrees of M. D. and A. M. 1891. Intend ultimately to practice medicine in Taunton.

Permanent address, East Taunton, Mass.

WILLIAM SANFORD ROBINSON.

I have lived in Omaha, Neb., since the last report was printed, making several trips through the Western States. In the fall of 1890 I started an Analytical Laboratory in this city, giving up my position with the U. P. R. R. A year ago I was made chief chemist of the U. P. R. R., and am now holding that position, still keeping, however, my private business and laboratory. Am not married and have no serious intentions of becoming so. Have taken no part in politics save to cast one vote annually. The Harvard Club in this city numbers about thirty members. We have had but few meetings; the last one was two years ago in honor of President Elliot.

My address is with the Union Pacific R. R.

EMERY HERMAN ROGERS.

The only addition I have to make to my last report is that I was married Aug. 24, 1892, to Florence Halliday, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Halliday of Cairo, Ill. I am still Chicago manager for the D. Webster King Glue Co., of Boston, and as the life of a man in a mercantile business is generally one steady routine, year in and year out, I have no experience of any interest to report.

JAMES SAVAGE RUSSELL.

Reports that since 1890 he has continued in the office of Lee, Higginson & Co., Bankers and Brokers, Boston. Is not married. He is a member of sundry Boston, New York and Milton Clubs. Has made one trip to Europe and several in this country.

Permanent address, 44 State St., Boston.

PHILIP SIDNEY RUST.

With reference to the information for which you so touchingly appeal in order that the Class of '87 may be enlightened as to my history since the appearance of your last report, I will say that my delay has been owing to the fact that I have been lying awake nights trying to make a history for myself. I have given this up. My imagination suggested nothing to me which seems sufficiently consistent with the facts to be believed by those of the Class who might keep "tabs" on me. I still live in Boston. I am still unmarried, though less so than before; my children are still unnamed. June, 1890, I received from the Harvard Law School the degree of LL. B., and since September, 1890, I have been practicing law at 40 Water St. Have acquired no honor, profit, or trust, worth mentioning. Am a member of the Fuller Club, the Boston Athletic Association, the Newton Boat Club, and the Boston Bar Association. Permanent address as before, 254 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.

ROBERT DEWOLFE SAMPSON.

Graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1890, since then has been in a law office in New York City.

Permanent address, 2 West 51st St., New York City.

WILLIAM SAULSBURY.

1. I have continued to reside in Dover since the last report. My interest in agricultural pursuits has increased and I own several large farms, and I have taken quite an active part in public affairs. 2. The matrimonial blessing has not come my way, and I am still living in a state of single wretchedness, with no prospect of a change in the near future. 5. During the last three years I have become a member of the following societies and clubs: The Wilmington Club, of Wilmington, Del.; The Farmers Institute of Kent County; Union Lodge, No. 7, A. F. A. M., Dover, Del.; St. Johns Chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., Wilmington, Del.; St. John's Commandery, No. 1, K. T., Wil mington, Del. 6. I have taken an increased interest in politics. I am a Democrat because I believe that the success of Democratic principles is best for this State and for the country. I have favored the best nominations and earnestly worked for the party's success at the polls. I was a delegate to the National Association of Democratic Clubs in 1888, and was again elected a delegate in 1892, though I could not attend the latter convention. In 1890, at the Democratic County Convention of Kent County I was offered the nomination for Representative in the General Assembly, which for personal reasons I felt constrained to decline. In August, 1892, I was again tendered the Democratic nomination for the same position. This time I accepted, and was elected in the following November. 7. In May, 1890, I was appointed by President Harrison an Alternate Commissioner for the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893. In November, 1892, I was elected Representative in Kent County in the General Assembly of the State of Delaware, taking my seat on the first Tuesday in January, 1893. During the session of the Legislature I took an active part in the proceedings, was chairman of the most important committee of the House, the Committee of Revised Statutes, and was a member of the Committee on Corporations and Appropriations. 10-11. I have written some newspaper articles, and have made a number of public speeches, but I cannot flatter myself that any of them deserve a particular notice.

Permanent address, Dover, Delaware.

HENRY SCHOFIELD.

After graduating from the Harvard Law School he went to Chicago, where he began to practice law. In July, 1892, he accepted a position in the office of the Solicitor General of the United States in Washington. I am not informed as to his movements since then.

GEORGE MARTIN SEELEY.

I am general manager of the blast furnaces, mines, etc. of the New River Mineral Co. at above place (Ivanhoe, Va.), and I have been since last report, also manager of the Ivanhoe Foundry and Machine Works. Am also president and treasurer of the Ivanhoe Land and Improvement Co., same place. Am neither engaged nor married.

Permanent address, Ivanhoe, Wythe Co., Va.

CHARLES EDWARD SHATTUCK.

Since the date of your last report the following uninteresting facts are all that I have with which to characterize the even tenor of the way pursued by me. In 1890 I received the degrees of LL. B. and A. M. at the Law School. I also published an essay in the Harvard Law Review, of which I was an editor. From 1890 to the fall of 1892, I was engaged in the practice of the law in Boston in the office of Shattuck & Munroe. Since last fall I have been in practice on my own account. I am still rather enthusiatic on the democratic side in politics and have been a delegate to several democratic conventions held to nominate state officers. Have also made a few public political addresses.

Permanent address, 53 State St., Boston.

EUGENE RODMAN SHIPPEN.

Since October, 1890, I have been settled as minister over the First Unitarian Church of Wichita, Kans. Wichita is a typical Western City, spread over fifty-six square miles of territory, calling itself "The Peerless Princess of the Plains," having 25,000 population, and boasting of two colleges and two Universities. You ask some delicate personal questions but there is no refusing to answer, I suppose. I am neither married nor am I engaged to be married. Of Clubs I am a member of but one, the Coronado Club of this city: I might include, however, the Unity Club, a successful literary society. I take no active part in politics, other than that of using my personal influence against the Populist party and propaganda and taking a public stand for non-partizanship in municipal politics. Some time ago I made a public address on "The Silver Question in the Light of our Monetary History." During the year '91-'92 I was President of the Kansas Humane Society, and in that capacity introduced into Wichita the principles of organized or scientific charity. I failed of re-election last year because I was not a "professing Christian." The degree of D. D. has not been conferred upon me, though I am frequently addressed as "Doctor"! Have done considerable writing for local newspapers but have published nothing of permanent value. Was recently called to be associate pastor of the Church of the Saviour, Brooklyn, N. Y., but declined. During the past year I have spent much time and money in bringing University Extension lecturers to Wichita. We have had three courses in astronomy, geology, and electricity, but the work cannot be continued because of public apathy. Have been the means of sending lately two Wichita fellows of good promise to Harvard. It is a wonder to me that more work of this kind has not been done by the Alumni. For over a year I have been rooming with Arthur Faulkner, '86. We are the only Harvard representatives, so far as I know, in Southern Kansas. Our nearest neighbor lives in Topeka, 150 miles away.

ARTHUR CRITTENDEN SMITH

I am still engaged in the wholesale dry goods business, and I am a member of the firm of M. E. Smith & Co., 1101, 1103, 1105, 1107 Howard St., corner of Eleventh St., Omaha, Neb. I was married on November 2, 1892, to Miss Harriet Foster White of Brookline, Mass., at the bride's home, "Elmhurst," Brookline. Mr. Joseph Huntington White is the name of my wife's father, and Ellen Danforth (Tewksbury) White the name of her mother. I am a member of the Omaha Club and a non-resident member of Harvard Club of New York City. Travel between Omaha, New York and Boston several times a year.

My home address is 1203 Park Ave., Omaha, Neb.

CHARLES GASTON SMITH.

I was at the Harvard Law School till February, 1891. From that time I was in Gaston & Whitney's law office till April, 1892, and since then I have been with my father. My work is principally confined to conveyancing. I am not married. I think there is nothing else to say that would be of interest.

HORACE EUGENE SMITH.

I can only answer the questions asked in their order, as I have nothing of interest to the class to tell outside of them. (1) Residence since last report 113 Spruce St., Philadelphia. Entered the firm of Chas. Smith & Sons, September 1, 1887, at 303 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Bankers. Partner since January 1, 1889. (2) Married April 29, 1891, at Philadelphia, to Miss Amelia Benham Matthews of Philadelphia, daughter of Gen. E. Wallace Matthews and Amelia Benham. (3) Mary Christine Smith, born at Philadelphia, April 15, 1892. (5) Everett and Lognians Societies of Haverford College, Art, University, Union League, Harvard Clubs of Philadelphia, and Germantown Cricket Club. (6) No part taken in politics except casting a ballot now and then. (8) A. B. Haverford College, 1886; A. B. Harvard College, 1887. (11) Pretty well all over United States and the continent of Europe. (12) All communications will reach me at any time at 303 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

SAMUEL HERBERT SMITH.

Since the last report was issued I have continued to practice law at 3 Pemberton Square, Boston, with home at Arlington. The monotonous tenor of my existence has been broken only by my marriage, February 18, 1892, to Miss Mary H. Horton of Attleborough, and by the birth of a daughter, Agatha, January 5, 1893.

Permanent address, Arlington, Mass.

WILLIAM KANAN SMITH.

Has not replied. He resides in Portland, Ore.

JOHN LINZEE SNELLING.

I left college in the summer of 1886, and entered the employ of the N. Y. & N. E. R. R. in their local freight office in Boston. In November of the same year I became a clerk in the general freight office of the Boston & Albany R. R., at Boston, and in January, 1888, took the position of clerk to the General Traffic Manager of that company, which position I still retain. In June of 1887 I took the degree of A. B. with my class. Under date of February 16, 1893, he writes: "I am sorry to say there is nothing to be added to the above."

Permanent address, care B. & A. R. R., Boston, Mass.

FRANKLIN CHESTER SOUTHWORTH.

Received the degrees of B. D. and A. M., from Harvard last Commencement, travelled through the summer in England, France, Italy, Switzerland, and Germany, and was ordained and installed November 29, 1892, as minister of the First Unitarian Society of Duluth, Minn.

Permanent address, Duluth, Minn.

WALTER RAYMOND SPALDING.

I have been in Paris since last October, studying music, and hope to continue my studies next year, but probably in Germany. My life for four years after I left Cambridge was very uneventful, as far as general interest to the class is concerned, as I was buried in the monastic routine of a boy's boarding school,—St. Mark's at Southborough, Mass. During the summer of '91 I made a walking tour with Mr. E. H. Kidder Harvard, '88, through Switzerland and Germany. We attended the Wagner Festival at Bayreuth and visited most of the usual places of interest on the continent. There are many Harvard men here studying; in fact, beginning with '84, every class is represented by one or more fellows.

Permanent address, 8 Highland St., Cambridge, Mass.

STEPHEN BERRIEN STANTON.

In March, 1892, left the law office of Evarts, Choate & Beaman, to begin the practice of law in partnership with P. Tecumseh Sherman, under the firm name of Sherman & Stanton, at 59 Wall Street, New York City. Having previously pursued the course at the School of Political Science of Columbia College and received the degree of Ph. D., has published a book entitled, "The Behring Sea Controversy," and an article in the December number of the American Law Register and Review for 1892 on "The American Side of the Behring Sea Controversy."

LIVINGSTON BOYD STEDMAN.

In August, 1890, at Seattle, Washington, I entered the law office of Col. J. C. Haines, General Counsel of the Oregon Improvement Company, as managing clerk, where I remained until the death of Col. Haines, January 2, 1892. Then formed a partnership for the practice of law with E. C. Hughes and H. H. A. Hastings, under the firm name of Hughes, Hastings & Stedman. This professional association has continued since that date. On April 29, 1891, I was married to Ann Bonneville Leiper, of Chester, Pennsylvania, at that place. A son was born on September 15, 1892, called Daniel Baxter Stedman 4th. The degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon me by Harvard College, June 24, 1891.

My permanent address is Seattle, Washington.

PEARL LAMBERT STERNBERGH.

Pearl Lambert Sternbergh was born in Reading, Pa., January 26, 1867. He entered Peekskill Military Academy on the Hudson in 1879, remaining there four years. He then entered Princeton College, but having a preference for Harvard, at the end of a year left Princeton and entered the class of '87 in the Sophomore year. During his college course he contributed articles to the college papers, Lippincott's Magazine and the Overland Monthly. He took an actve part in the Harvard Union, and was one of the speakers chosen to speak for the Boylston Prizes. He was also President of the Signet.

As a student he was swift, rapid, comprehensive, indifferent to considerations of rank. He belonged to that class of students whose actual personal gain from their college work is largely in excess of their formal rank. His ability and force were quickly recognized by all who knew him.

After commencement he went abroad, spending the next two years at the Universities of Berlin and Tübingen, receiving from the latter university the degree of Doctor of Political Science. During the Christmas vacation of 1888, while travelling in Russia, he caught a severe cold, laying the foundation of his lung trouble, from which he never recovered.

In 1889 he entered the Harvard Law School, but was obliged on account of increasing pulmonary trouble to leave in November. He went to Denver, Col., where he continued his law studies, being admitted to the bar in 1890. Having lived over a year at Denver without marked improvement, he removed to Redlands, in Southern California, intending to grow oranges and other fruits. He was delighted both with this new occupation and the climate, and appeared to improve very decidedly. In September, 1891, he returned East to visit friends. The fatigue and exposure of travel aggravated his lung trouble, obliging him to hasten back to California. He declined rapidly. From Redlands he went to San Diego, and there, February 8th, 1892, he died

His early death brought sorrow to a large circle of friends. For his personal attractiveness, generosity, many-sidedness, his wit and native gaiety, his exuberant joyousness, his sanguine buoyancy, and deep earnestness drew to him, very warmly and devotedly, characters of wholly different types. He entered with zest and eagerness into all the social enjoyments of college life. He delighted to entertain his friends, finding his pleasure rather in fulfilling the duties and privileges of friendship than in claiming for himself its rights and benefits. Harvard students and professors who met him abroad know well how he delighted in helping them in every way to the full enjoyment of their visit to places with which his longer residence had made him familiar.

Along with lively qualities which made him so attractive as a companion he had a deeper and more serious vein, which, in generous natures, so often underlies these more playful characteristics. None of his friends who knew him in his gayest and lightest moods, could have been surprised at hearing, as I accidentally did, of his quiet, unobtrusive acts of generosity to poor families in Cambridge, whose want became known to him. He never knew that I had learned of his unpretentious charity, for his instinctive delicacy was so great that a friend liked to respect it.

His instincts led him to an active life rather than to meditation, yet he had a genuine interest in ethics and the religious bearings of philosophy. He had the haunting hope which has lured so many minds to the tasks of philosophy, the hope of rationalizing faith, and discovering in the mystery and evil of the world a core of infinite wisdom and beneficence.

The quality above all others which endeared him to his friends was his instinctive loyalty. He trusted his friends and was not quick to believe evil of those who had his confidence. Sensitive as he was, quick of feeling, self-respecting, he was never exacting, never put a strain upon friendship. Few men would accommodate themselves as he did to the weaknesses, caprices, vanities of those whose better and more worthy qualities attracted him to them. In a nature so ardent and impetuous this fidelity seemed all the more beautiful that it often showed itself in a gentleness, a patience, a kindly forbearance not commonly found in young men.

With him friendship was entirely devoid of that sordid prudence which sometimes animates expressions of personal interest. Like all other large-hearted natures his social instincts gathered to himself these who were not conspicuous among their fellows, but whose lives were thrown into natural association with his own. His friendships thus were disinterested and genuine. His refinement did not make him fastidious or unjust in his judgments of men. He was singularly democratic, choosing his companions from the spontaneous promptings of a rich and generous nature. His mind was alert, active, open to a wide variety of human interests and activities, history, economics, politics, philosophy, literature. Therefore, because of his own intellectual enthusiasm and ardor, he was quickly attracted to any one who seemed to him to possess worth, or who had anything original or valuable to say on any topic of human interest.

A mind so richly endowed, so evidently marked by nature for distinction, could hardly fail to be ambitious. Sternbergh had ambitions, creditable to himself, honorable and large. There was one ambition however, sometimes found among the aims of men of which he was not conscious. The quality of his friendship was so pure that he never dreamed of seeking to win friends as a definite object of endeavor. Could such an ambition exist without in some measure coloring friendship with a sombre tinge of selfishness, its fullest realization could hardly exceed the abundant friendships which came to him naturally and unsought. His ambitions indeed were not destined to be fulfilled, but if it be anything to be cherished in the abiding remembrance of all who truly knew him, if the deep affection of many friends is a reward for living, then it may well be that his life was richer in its realization than he himself could have known.

When he saw the end approaching and knew that his hopes and ambitions could never be realized, he met the bitter disappointment in brave simplicity, without a murmur or complaint. That was like him; and it was like him too in those last days to remember his friends. He talked of them, selected books from his library to be given them as memorials of his regard, and so, faithful to his friends, as he had always been, in their adversity no less than in their good fortune, he passed out into the dark Silence and Mystery, which he trusted would unveil to him, as to others, its hidden secret of mercy and more than human goodness.

CHARLES T. SEMPERS, '88.

ALBERT EUGENE STERNE.

At the time of the publication of the last report he was studying medicine in Berlin; continuing that report he writes: "In Berlin I remained three years studying my profession, attending lectures, clinics, hospitals, etc. In August, 1891, took the examinations and received a "magna cum" from the Berlin University. During my stay in Germany I met many Harvard men, several of whom were classmates; was one of the founders of the Association of American Physicans of Berlin, a society which has been a source of profit and enjoyment to many of our countrymen abroad. After leaving Berlin, went to Dublin, as "interne" at the Rotunda Maternity Hospital. Thence to London and Edinburgh, taking in the Hospital work there. Have traveled extensively during vacations, visiting Austria, Denmark, Norway and Sweeden, part of Russia, England, Scotland and Ireland. Spent one summer yachting on the Baltic. December last I recrossed the Atlantic, arriving after an exceedingly rough voyage on board the "Saale"—on Chirstmas day, after five and a half years' absence. Have at last settled to practice medicine in this town—Indianapolis, Indiana—where I am doing well. Had a brilliant offer from the Chicago College of Physicians and Surgeons to take charge of a laboratory for Nervous diseases, but owing to personal reasons I was forced to postpone acceptance indefinitely. Shall probably take a similar position here in the State Medical College. Published a series of articles of "Arthropathia tabidorum"—nervous joint diseases—in German, and also in the New York Medical Record of January 28, 1893. Am member of the Marion County Medical Society, Indiana State Medical Society, Indianapolis Surgical Society, and the American Medical Association. Allow me to say that I shall always be glad to see any classmate coming to this city, though I cannot as yet present them to either wife or child.

My permanent address is, Rooms 3-6, Marion Block, where my offices are located.

SAMUEL STORROW.

I spent the three years next succeeding graduation from Harvard, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and immediately thereafter began the practice of my chosen profession. I am now entitled to hang the letters S. B. after the glorious A. B., and my shingle reads "Samuel Storrow, Civil Engineer." I did a few odd jobs around Boston at the start, waiting for a chance to get out here (North Yakima, Wash.) to this land of promise and plenty. In June, 1890 I entered the employ of the Union Pacific Railroad, and was employed principally as assistant engineer on the construction of a very large bridge then being built across the Columbia river. With the beginning of 1891, I struck out for myself and have been steadily increasing my practice ever since. I am making a specialty of hydraulic work, and yet do almost every kind of job that comes my way. I am engineer to about a half-dozen land or improvement companies; am a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and of a few local social organizations; am a defeated candidate on the Democratic ticket for the office of County Surveyor; and represent, as attorney or otherwise, a number of Eastern people who, like myself, think western securities when carefully selected a safe investment. My work requires frequent and long trips about the country. I have crossed the continent from east to west five times, and from north to south four times, and have traveled about a thousand miles through this State on horse-back for the United States Geological Survey. It has pleased God and the girl that I should not yet be married, but as constant droppings will wear away the hardest stone, I have hopes that I will report better progress next time.

Address, N. Yakima, Wash.

FRANK CALEB STOWELL.

I entered the engineering department of the Boston & Maine Railroad immediately upon leaving college, and am still employed as an assistant Engineer by that company. I was married August 25, 1892, to Miss Eleanor Chadbourne Boothby, daughter of Richard C. and Emeline Boothby, of Somerville, Mass.

Permanent address, 34 Columbus Ave., Somerville, Mass.

JOHN OSBORNE SUMNER.

Has been engaged in historical study, spending a great part of his time abroad.

WINTHROP TISDALE TALBOT.

Since reporting to you three years ago I have spent two winters abroad, one in London and Prague and the other in Vienna. While in England I had the pleasure of being able to compare, from personal experience, the English Examination System with our own. In June, 1892, I received an appointment as Instructor in Pathology in Boston University School of Medicine, and also as Pathologist to the Massachusetts Homœopathic Hospital. A few weeks ago I was elected president of the Alumni Association of the Boston University School of Medicine. I shall enter private practice next autumn at 685 Boylston St., Boston, Mass., which will be my permanent address.

ELWOOD GARDNER TEWKSBURY.

On leaving college he entered Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Conn., graduating there from in June, 1890; was married in May, 1889, to Miss Grace Holbrook, Norwich, Conn., and spent the vacation season of that year in charge of the Congregational church at Shelburne, N. H. On leaving the Seminary in 1890, he accepted an appointment from the A. B. C. F. M. as Missionary to North China, and was ordained to that service in June of the same year at the First Orthodox Congregational church, East Somerville, by council called by said church for that purpose. On September 4, '90, they sailed from San Francisco for China, and arrived at Tung-Cho, near Peking, China, on October 26th, 1890, at which place they are still located and employed in studying the language and teaching in High School and College. This season he is superintending the erection of buildings for a new High School, College and Theological Seminary of North China, at that place. When at Hartford Seminary he published an edition of the Bible in the Hebrew and Greek, and has also had printed in Chinese the translation of the Tonic-sol-fa system in music.

Permanent address, care Spaulding & Tewksbury, 180 Summer St., Boston.

AARON CLAFLIN THAYER.

My record is very short. I have been practicing law in New York since early in September, 1890; was admitted to the New York bar in May, 1891; have been in the law offices of Carter, Pinney & Kellogg, and of George M. Pinney, Jr., 44 Pine St., in whose office I am at present. I am also a member of the Harvard Club of New York, of the Crescent Athletic Club of Brooklyn, and of the Bar Association of New York. Received the degree of LL.B. at the Harvard Law School in 1890.

Permanent address, 44 Pine St., New York, N. Y.

HENRY ADAMS THAYER.

Has not been heard from.

ERNEST ALEXANDER THOMSON.

Is reported to be travelling in Europe.

CHARLES SPROULL THOMPSON.

Very little of public interest has come into my life during the past three years. I am still with the Illinois Central Railroad Co. as one of its city freight solicitors in Chicago. Through the kindness of Prof. Laughlin I have been enabled to matriculate at the University of Chicago, and to carry on under his direction certain economic studies. I go up for the master's degree in the Spring Quarter.

My address is, care Illinois Central Railroad Co., Chicago.

BARCLAY TILTON.

Am in the Boston Stock Exchange. Made a trip to Nassau, Bahamas.

Permanent address, Puritan Club, Boston.

ROBERT TRUSLOW.

The life of a newspaper man in New York is as full of interest, to himself, as a championship foot ball game—one never knows what will happen next, but it is tolerably certain that somebody will be hurt before the day is ended. I varied the excitement of newspaper work with a few months' service last year as secretary of the City Improvement Society, and took a hand in a successful effort of the society to compel the New York cabmen, whose extortionate charges were notorious, to keep the official rate-card plainly in sight in their vehicles, as required by law, so that any disputed demand might be brought to book at once. At present [March] I am doing editorial work for the Evening Telegram.

JOSEPH BROWNE THOMAS TUTHILL.

Has not made any reply.

GEORGE HERMAN TUTTLE.

I am settled at 381 Cambridge St., E. Cambridge; am enjoying a remunerative and increasing practice. I have done nothing especially remarkable except to save a man from aconite poisoning after three doctors had given him up. I reported this case to the Boston Med. and Surg. Journal (see issue of December 24, 1891,) as the amount taken was the largest that had been known after which recovery occurred. I am a Mason and member of Putnam Club (our local political machine.) Unmarried.

Permanent address, 381 Cambridge St., E. Cambridge, Mass.

ALFRED LEE TYLER.

Replying to your circular letter enquiring for my whereabouts during the last three years, I beg to say that I have spent the time principally here in Alabama. I gave up my place on the Louisville & Nashville R. R. in January, 1891, and during that year was not in any business. On January 1st, 1892, I formed a partnership with S. B. Napp, of this place, and he and I, under the firm name of Napp, Tyler & Co., do a general wholesale grocery and cotton commission business. On October 19th, 1892, I was married, in New London, Connecticut, to Harriet Williams, second daughter of Henry R. and Mary P.

Bond, of that place. My membership in clubs consists in my being a member of the Union and University Clubs, both of New York City.

My permanent address will be Anniston, Alabama.

FRANK VOGEL.

Your circular reached me several days ago, and I have since been wondering how I could answer every one of your formidable list of thirteen questions. I have concluded that answer as I will, it would only read like the catalogue of ships in Homer, or perhaps like some inscription on a tombstone, where each reader can fill the lacunae by drawing on his own imagination. I am now living at 120 Pembroke St., Boston, and am still engaged in teaching at the Institute of Technology, where I was promoted to the rank of Assistant Professor in Modern Languages last September. The only part I have taken in politics is to vote. I have obtained an A. M. from Harvard, in June, 1892. For the last three years I have been spending a part of each summer in Illinois, at Normal, with E. Manley, where we established a summer school of languages at the Illinois State Normal University. We had great success in our summer school, as, no doubt, Manley will report more fully.

My permanent address is 120 Pembroke Street, Boston, Mass.

THEODORE CRAMER VON STORCH.

Since the last report has resided in Scranton, Pa., where he is a lawyer and coal operator. He reports that he is unmarried and has taken no part in politics beyond state and county matters.

Permanent address, 1609 North Main Avenue, Scranton, Pa.

FRANK LAWSON WALKER.

I have made no change since the last report, either in my residence or business. In Beverly, December 31st, 1890, I married Henrietta Bohm Webber, daughter of William Augustus Webber and Lucy Abby Hutchinson. A daughter, Eleanor Lucy, was born December 5th, 1892. All the other questions I can answer in the negative.

My permanent address is Beverly, Mass.

JOSEPH EUGENE WALKER.

Up to last fall I had been employed as teacher of classics and mathematics at Shortlidge Media Academy. In September, 1892, I began teaching for Mr. Henry Hobart Brown, in Delancey School, Philadelphia, where I am still engaged. I was married on June 11, 1890, to Eva Lynn Hannum. My wife's parents were Frank Hannum and Catherine A. Hannum of Kennett Square. We have one child, Evalynn H. Walker, born October 9, 1892.

My present address is Kennett Square, Chester County, Penn.

EUGENE CARROLL WEBSTER.

Was ordained in East Providence, R. I., on the 28th of May, 1890; married on the 25th of June, 1890, and the same day received from Yale the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Resigned his pastorate July 1, 1892, and became assistant editor of the Blakeslee Graded Lesson Series for Sunday-schools and Bible Classes; editorial rooms at 21 Bromfield St.

Residence No. 11 Sacramento St., Cambridge.

ALONZO ROGERS WEED.

Has resided in Newton, Mass. Was admitted to the Suffolk bar in July, 1890, and in the fall of that year began practicing in Boston in partnership with his brother, George M. Weed (Harvard, '86) the style of the firm being Weed & Weed. He has received the degree of LL. B. from Boston University, and has published "Business Law, a Manual for Business Schools" (D. C. Heath & Co., Boston, 1892).

Permanent address, Newton, Mass.

WINTHROP WETHERBEE.

The fact is, I have nothing to report. Still with Foote & French, bankers and brokers, Boston; still unmarried, not even engaged; but in spite of it, get along after a fashion.

Permanent address, 146 Marlboro St., Boston.

ARTHUR WILLIAM WHEELWRIGHT.

Has returned from Paris, where he was studying architecture at the time of the last report, and is now practicing in Boston.

Permanent address, 129 Beacon St., Boston.

SUMNER WHEELER WHITE.

Is in New York. Letters have failed to reach him.

GEORGE GILL WHITELAW.

Have lived in St. Louis ever since graduation and have been connected with The Greeley-Burnham Grocer Co., now Scudder-Gale Grocer Co. all that time. Was married October 16, 1889, to Fredrika Lee Allison of Nashville, Tenn., daughter of Frances E. and Matthew Corey Allison, and sister of J. E. Allison of '87. No children. Member of the University Club of St. Louis, Mo.

Permanent address, 3952 West Bell Place, St. Louis, Mo.

BENJAMIN WHITNEY.

Has become a member of the firm of Lewis F. Perry & Whitney, which is engaged in the business of painting and decorating glass. Has two children, a daughter, Annie, born December 31, 1890, and a son, Benjamin Perry, born October 7, 1892, both at West Medford, Mass.

Permanent address, 8 Bosworth Street, Boston.

FRANK BEECHER WIESTLING.

I have lived in Seattle, Washington, since writing my last report, and am still practicing law with my father, under the firm name of Wiestling & Wiestling. I took part in the last political campaign as a Republican. I was president of the Young Men's Republican Club of Seattle, and made a few speeches. I was married April 18, 1893, to Miss Annie Edmunds of Tacoma, Wash. There are a great many Harvard men on the Pacific coast, and Seattle has about thirty. The Harvard Club of Seattle meets every three months at a dinner. Of the class of 1887, Stedman, Quimby, Hall and myself live in Seattle.

WALDO WICKHAM WILLARD.

Since the last report I have graduated from the Harvard Law School and have been admitted to the bar in New York City. I have been in one law office and lived in New York continuously. Otherwise none of the interesting circumstances or experiences suggested by your questions have happened to me. [The office mentioned is that of Barlow & Wetmore, 36 Wall St.]

My address is 209 Madison Avenue.

HARRY JOHNSON WOOD.

In reply to your circular I would say that my occupation is same as stated in your last report. June 1, 1891, I formed a new firm under the name of Wood, Taylor & Co., consisting of H. J. Wood, '87, G. G. Hall, '88 and Wm. H. Taylor, and in the following May moved our office to 212 Boylston St. where we are now located. I now live at 334 Harvard St., Cambridge, and have one child, Marguerite Dorr Wood, born November 29, 1896.

Communications should be sent to 212 Boylston St., Boston, Mass. I have nothing else of interest to write unless in reply to your question about travels, etc., I state that I passed six weeks or so at Bermuda last winter.

JAMES HAUGHTON WOODS.

Spent the summer of 1890 in France, the winter in Berlin, and the spring of 1891 in England. On my return was appointed assistant to Prof. Emerton in ecclesiastical history and have been in charge of St. Paul's Church, Natrick. Am a member of the Harvard Musical Association in Boston.

My address is 2 Chestnut St., Boston.

RICHARD AUGUSTUS ZEREGA.

I spent most of the summer of 1890, yachting. In October I accepted the position of assistant editor on the "University Magazine," resigning therefrom in January, 1891. In May 1891, I went abroad spending the summer in England. In August I went to Ireland, returning to England in October. In January, 1892, I went to the Riviera, returning to America in April. Spent the summer at West Chester, N. Y. In January, 1893, I came to New York and accepted a position in the office of Marquand Skehand & Co., Bankers. Unmarried. Member of the City Club, St. Nicholas, Harvard, Badminton, City Reform Clubs, all of New York. Was a member of the People's Municipal League in the campaign of 1890. Have always been a more or less active worker in the field of independent politics. October, 1890, delivered an address before a meeting of Socialists in the Cooper Union.

Permanent address, City Club, 677 Fifth Av., New York City.

OSCAR THEODORE ZINKEISEN.

I am told that he is in New York where he has been on the staff of the Tribune. He is now on the New York Herald.

ROBERT PAYNE BIGELOW.

Since the last report I have remained at the Johns Hopkins University, and I am still unmarried. The only part I have taken in politics has been to vote the Democratic ticket. I have continued an active member of the B. B. II. Fraternity, and I have become a member of the American Society of Naturalists and of the American Morphological Society. Before the latter society I read a short paper at the Philadelphia meeting in 1891. The University has been very kind to me in the matter of honors, for during the year 1889-90, I was given a University Scholarship, the next year I was appointed Fellow in Biology; the following year became Adam T. Bruce Fellow, and I still hold that fellowship, having been re-appointed in June, 1892, when I also was admitted, to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The following papers have been published by me in the Johns Hopkins University circulars, all but one being preliminary. The Marginal Sense-Organs in the Pelagidae, April, 1890: Notes on the Physiology of Caravella Maxima, May, 1891; Preliminary Notes on Some New Species of Squilla, May, 1891; on Reproduction by Budding in the Discomedusae, April, 1892; and on the Development of the Marginal Sense-Organs of a Rhizostomatous Medusa, April, 1892. I have also published a preliminary paper "On a New Species of Cassiopea from Jamaica" in the Zoologischer Anzeiger, No. 393, 1892; and a few short reviews in the American Naturalist. During each of the past three summers I have taken a voyage in connection with my work. For two months of the summer of 1890 I was employed as Naturalist on board the U. S. Fish Commission schooner Grampus, then cruising off Nantucket. In May, 1891, I went to Jamaica with a party under the auspices of the University. We established a marine laboratory there and I spent four months in that delightful island. A similar party of us went in June, 1892, by way of Key West to the Bimini Islands in the Bahamas, and after a month and a half of varied experience in the land of the spring of perpetual youth, we returned by way of Nassau. Soon after the middle of the present month I expect to leave here in charge of another expedition to Jamaica, and my address for next year will be Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, where I have just been appointed Instructor.

GEORGE HOWARD PARKER.

Your circular of inquiry followed me to Naples. In reply let me request a correction; I was Assistant and Instructor in zoology at Harvard, and not in geology as given in the report. Where I have been since your last report may be summed up as follows: For the college year 1890-'91, I held my old position as Instructor in Harvard, and at the close of that year the University granted me a D. Sc. and appointed me to a Parker Fellowship, which I have held two years. I left America, July, 1891, and went via England and Holland to Germany where I spent the summer in the Harz Mountains. I passed the following winter semester (1891-'92) in Leipzig, the summer semester in Berlin, and finally a winter semester (1892-'93) in Freiburg in Br. I am now studying at the Zoological Station at Naples, and expect to return to the United States this coming summer. Since your last report I have published the following papers: The Histology and Development of the Eye in the Lobster. Bull. Mus. Comp. Zoology, Harvard College, Vol. XX., No. 1, 1890. The Eyes in blind Cray fishes. Bull. Mus. Comp. Zoology, Harvard College, Vol. XX., No. 5, 1890. The compound Eyes in Crustaceans, Bull. Mus. Comp. Zoology, Harvard College, Vol. XXI., No. 2, 1891. A Method for Making Paraffine Sections from Preparations stained with Ehrlich's Methylenblue. Zoologischer Anzeiger, XV., No. 403, 1892.

My permanent address is 8 Harris St., Cambridge, Mass.

FRANK HAROLD SELLERS.

During the last three years I have confined myself almost exclusively to business, and still remain in the employ of the same company I started out with immediately on leaving college (i. e. The Title Guarantee and Trust Co. of Chicago.)

I have not married, or done anything else, beyond close application to my business, worthy of mention.

Permanent address, care Title Guarantee & Trust Co., Chicago, Ill.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS.

A brief account is given below of those temporary members of 1887 who have answered any of the Secretary's circulars, or of whom he has been able to learn anything.

SAMUEL ABBOTT.

Since the last report, I have been teaching in Washington, Pa., and in Milford, Delaware. I am to be married in June, to Miss Madeline White of Philadelphia. I have no other matter of interest to report, except my connection with the Columbian League as its founder.

Permanent address, Wakefield, Mass.

ELISHA HUNT ALLEN.

I am with the firm or Messrs. Blaker Bros. & Co., Bankers, 5 Nassau St., New York City, and have been with them for the past five or six years; unmarried and member of the New York Athletic Club.

All communications sent to 116 West 82d Street, will reach me

WILLIAM SYLVESTER ALLEN.

In reply to yours of the 15th I have the following answers to make to questions 1, 6 and 12: 1, Greenfield, Mass. Attorney-at law. 6, Voted for Cleveland and Russell as often as I could. 12, Greenfield, Mass.

THOMAS JENNINGS BAILEY.

I answer your questions as follows: (1,) Clarksville, Tenn. I have been engaged in the practice of law in Clarksville since October, 1890, when I was admitted to the bar here. Have formed no partnerships. (2,) Am unmarried. (5,) I belong to no clubs or societies. (6,) Have taken no part in politics. (7,) Have held no office. (8,) Received the degree of B. L. from Vanderbilt University (Nashville, Tenn.) in 1890. (9,) Have published nothing. (10,) Have made no addresses. (11,) In the summer of 1890 I took a trip to the Northwest to Puget Sound and returned home by way of San Francisco. (12,) Clarksville, Tenn.; will move this summer to either Nashville, Tenn., or Seattle, Wash., probably the latter.

GEORGE CARSWELL BAKER.

Died, 1886.

ALEXANDER ROBERT BAUM.

Since your first report was printed, I have dissolved the partnership heretofore existing, and am now practicing law alone at No. 330 Pine Street, Rooms 40 and 41. I have resided in Alameda continuously since my marriage and had there an increase in my family in the nature of a big, healthy, robust boy, whom we have named "Alexander Newcomb Baum." This sturdy branch of the family saw the light of day on August 29th, 1891. I have withdrawn from the "Native Sons" and "Red Men" since your first report was printed, and to-day belong only to the "Society of California Pioneers" of which society I am a life-member, and to the "Harvard Club of San Francisco." In politics I have taken a very active part these last three years on the democratic side of the question. I founded the Iroquois Club of Alameda City, and served as Secretary and Vice-President successively till last July, when I was elected President of the Club. On February, the 22nd last, I was for the third successive term elected Grand Treasurer of the State League of Iroquois Clubs. In October, 1890, I was nominated for the Assembly in what was then the 47th Assembly District, a district very strongly republican, that party's normal majority being about 800. While I was defeated I "ran" several hundred votes ahead of my ticket. This extraordinary "run" caused my party members to honor me by sending me as a delegate to the State Convention, which was held in Fresno, on May the 17th, 1892, where the opportunity was given me to aid in the nomination and election of the delegates to the National Convention, who afterwards nominated our honored President, Grover Cleveland. At Fresno, I was elected a member of the Democratic State Central Committeee of California, and upon its organization, was placed upon its Executive Committee. Thus, I naturally participated very actively in campaign work, and can claim a share of what glory there may attach to having carried California for Democracy for the first time in twelve years during a Presidential campaign. I have been and am a member of several sub-committees of the Executive Committee, and am thus thrown considerably into detail work of a very interesting nature, not the least being that of complete party re-organization on the broad principle of patriotism favored by our President. I find this work to be very exacting and arduous, but on the State Committee it is on a larger and broader scale, and freer of the many small and mean bickerings that are apt to render purely local politics distasteful to a gentleman. Altogether the opportunity of a careful inquiry into many public questions has been a study very congenial to me, and has strengthened my belief in the benefit and necessity of having every citizen interest himself in the duties demanded of him and the rights conferred upon him by our magnificent system of government. I certainly feel it my duty to my country to continue in active participation of matters political, and hope that knowledge acquired by me by arduous labor may some day be by me disseminated among my fellow citizens to our common good.

CONWAY RATHBONE BROWN.

Died December 31, 1883.

CHARLES CARROLL.

Is reported to be traveling abroad.

RULUFF STERLING CHOATE.

Died April, 1884.

ARTHUR COCHRANE.

Died August 17, 1889.

JOHN VALADON COWLING.

Since I left college I have been engaged, almost exclusively, in the manufacturing business. First with The Ajax Forge Company of this city; I was with them for five years; then with the Griffin Wheel and Foundry Company, and since last May, I have been agent for The Buda Foundry and Manufacturing Company. I am not married and some people tell me it is not my fault either. I have always been a democrat, and, when Mr. Cleveland was elected in '84, was given a minor position, but soon found political life unsatisfactory and resigned.

My address is No. 924 "The Monadnock," Chicago, Ill., and I will always be most pleased to see any of my old classmates, for I look back to the days passed at "Fair Harvard," and my associations there, as the happiest of my existence.

THOMAS CLELAND DAWSON.

After leaving Cambridge in 1885, entered the Cincinnati Law School, graduated in May, 1886, taking the essay prize, $75; in June, 1886, received the degree of A. B. from Hanover College; October, 1886, was admitted to the bar at Des Moines, Iowa, and practised law there until 1890; was House Correspondent and then City Editor of the Iowa State Register. In 1891, removed to Council Bluffs, Iowa, where he has been practicing law since, as a member of the firm of Stone & Dawson. Was clerk in the Iowa Legislature in 1888 and 1890, and has been, since February, 1891, assistant attorney-general. Not married.

HARRIE BEEKMAN DRAKE.

Has continued teaching since the issue of the last report, and for the past two years has been master at St. George's Hall, Summit, New Jersey. He is a member of the Summit Field Club.

Permanent address, 16 Ash St., Cambridge, Mass.

EDWARD FOX FESSENDEN.

Died March 11, 1887.

WILLIAM YALE FOX.

Has continued the practice of medicine at Taunton, Mass. Married, October 20, 1892, at Taunton, Annie L., daughter of Charles H. and M. Emily Paull. Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Harvard Club of Taunton, and the Massachusetts Association of Boards of Health. Was appointed chairman of the Board of Health of Taunton, January, 1891, and reappointed in January, 1893.

Permanent address, Taunton, Mass.

DANIEL PAINE GRISWOLD.

Since the last report I kept at the law for a couple of years and finally gave it up and have since been leading a life of idleness. There is a record of my marriage in the last report, so it is unnecessary to record it again. My wife and I are both well, and as yet no infants have appeared on the scene. As regards clubs, I belong in New York to the "Racquet and Tennis Club," the "Vaudeville Club," the "City Club," the "Harvard Club," and the "Amateur Comedy Club." I have taken no part in politics except to vote, and nobody for whom I have ever voted has been elected; nor have I held any positions of profit, honor or trust that I remember. Degrees have been as scarce with me as they were at Harvard. I have published nothing since my solitary contribution to the "Harvard Advocate," in the year of 1887. I have not addressed or even attended any public meetings. I left New York on the 15th of last October, and have since with my wife, been drifting about France and Italy, which we have greatly enjoyed. We are now down on the coast of Brittany, where I have taken a house for the summer. The country is very beautiful, and we expect to enjoy our summer here greatly.

My address in New York is 62 West 12th St., and anything sent there will be forwarded to me, though for a year more I shall be abroad, and the most direct address will be care Brown, Shipley & Co., Founder's Court, Lothbury, London, E. C.

RICHARD HODGES GUSHEE.

During the past winter and spring I have been knocking around the Neojave Desert and Southeastern California for my health. Since my last report I have been head-master of St. Paul's School, Los Angeles. Last October I was obliged to resign, my throat failing.

Letters addressed 30 Lee St., Cambridge, will reach me

JAMES WINSLOW HALL.

In reply to your inquiries for news of myself since the publication of your last report to the class of 1887, I have very little to communicate. My residence and occupation are the same as three years ago, and my estate is still that of single blessedness; consequently I have no reply to make to queries 2, 3 and 4. I am a member of the Harvard Club of the Northwest, and the Harvard Club of Seattle; of the Seattle Yacht Club, and of the Sons of the American Revolution. The only active part I have taken in politics was as a delegate from this precinct to the Kitsap County Republican Convention a year ago. The only office I have held was that of judge of election at the general election last November. I am not an author nor an orator, and very little of a traveller, my only journeys having been a couple of trips to Portland, Oregon.

My permanent address remains the same ; care of Hall Bros., Shipbuilders, Port Blakeley.

BENJAMIN BYRON HOFFMAN.

Has resided mainly in New York, but of late has been travelling in Sweden, where he is at present attending the Sloyd Gymnasium in Maas. He is a member of the Harvard Club of New York, and has published "On Sloyd," American Book Co., 1892.

Permanent address, 5 Mercer St., New York.

HENRY CUTTER HOLT.

Since last reported I have continued in Architecture, residing in Winchester. In March, 1891, I went abroad for eighteen months' travel and study of Architecture in England, France, Italy and Greece. Returning in August, 1892, was married September 11th, to Elizabeth Eastham Gray, daughter of Charles W. Gray and Ella W. Gray of Winchester. Have since then resided in Winchester, practicing my profession with Wheeler & Northend, Lynn, Mass.

Permanent address, Winchester, Mass.

EDWARD V. KAMINSKI.

Since last report I have become a partner in the present firm of H. M. Kaminski & Son, engaged in the importation of silk goods, at 476 Broome Street. Have entered into no matrimonial partnership, however. Take an occasional trip to Europe, but it is of short duration and devoted entirely to business.

JOHN HOWLAND LOTHROP.

Was in Boston in the employ of Miner, Beal & Co., wholesale clothing dealers, from October 1, 1884, until January 1, 1887. Since that time has been in Omaha with the Union Pacific Railway, until July 1, 1890. At that time was appointed General Freight and Passenger Agent of Kearney and Black Hills Railway. On December 12, 1892, was elected General Manager of the same. Was married September 3, 1891, at Lexington, Mo., to Lucille B. La Bertew.

My address since July 1, 1890 has been and is now, Kearney, Nebraska.

ARTHUR SYLVESTER LURIA.

Since 1890 I have done little to interest my fellow classmates as I am still engaged in the practice of law in this city, and am now chief assistant on the staff of the General Attorney of the Western Union Telegraph Company. I am unmarried, am a member of the Lotus and Seneca Clubs of New York. In 1890 I wrote a digest of telegraph cases which was kindly received by the leading Telegraph companies and their attorneys in this country and Canada, and since then have issued two annual supplements thereto. In 1891 I again went abroad for a short vacation, visiting Paris and London.

My permanent address is 195 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

WILLIAM DOMINICK LYNCH.

Died June 18, 1889.

WALLACE NUTTING.

After leaving college, took a theological course at Hartford and Union Seminaries, and in May 1888 became for one year stated supply of the Belleville Avenue Congregational church, in Newwark, N. J. Accepted an unanimous call of the Park Congregational church, St. Paul, Minn. Installed November 14, 1889. Became pastor of Plymouth Congregational church, Seattle, Washington, in June 1891. The church has erected a handsome edifice, has a membership of about 600, and is strong in all respects. Was married June 5, 1888, at Colerain, Mass., to Mariet Griswold Caswell, of Buckland, Mass., daughter of Josiah W. and Ann E. (Davis) Griswold. Is a member of the Puget Sound Congregational Club. Has served as president of Seattle Ministerial Association. Edits the Occidental Congregationalist, devoted to the interest of Christianity in the Pacific Northwest, and published at Seattle. Addressed December 19, 1892, the Congregational Club of Oregon, on "The Aristocracy of the Pilgrims." Has travelled in Yellowstone National Park, Alaska, and journeys to the Atlantic coast every summer.

WILLIAM HASSELTINE PEAR.

Is still connected with the Boston Children's Aid Society. Was married at Cambridge to Fanny Carleton Bradley.

Permanent address, Cambridge, Mass.

THOMAS BLYTHE SCOTT.

I have been living in St. Paul during all that time with the exception of a few months spent in the south and Pacific coast. My occupation has not changed nor my other circumstances. My membership in clubs, etc., has grown to such an extent that it has become a painful duty to pay the various dues and assessments. I have taken no part in politics, but have been placed in two or three directorates, principally of trust without much profit. I have written no books nor addressed public meetings, so that you see there has been nothing particularly extraordinary in my career up to date.

WILLIAM BACON SCOFIELD.

I resigned my position of city editor of the Worcester Gazette last September and am now treasurer of the Worcester Thread Company, whose chief product is shoe thread. You will notice that I have made a kind of business hand-spring, for I am now after the heels instead of the heads of the people.

EDWARD SAMUEL SPAULDING.

In answer to your letter I would say that since that last report I have been most of the time in Newburyport, Mass., which is my permanent address. In politics I am a democrat, and a member of the Young Men's Democratic Club of this city. I beg you will be content with the above and rest assured that if I achieve any deeds worth recording I will forward an account of them.

FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN.

Is residing in New York City, where he is Adjunct Professor of Architecture of the School of Mines, Columbia College. Has received the degree of Ph. D. (Columbia). Nov. 16, 1887, he married Juliet Durand, daughter of Rev. Cyrus B. and Sarah E. Durand. Has one child, Dempster Durand Sherman, born in New York City, Feb. 19, 1890. Is a member of the Century and Authors' Club. He has published: "Madrigales and Catches," New York, 1887; "New Waggings of Old Tales," Boston, 1887; "Lyrics for a Lute," Boston, 1890; "Little Folk Lyrics," Boston, 1892.

Permanent address, School of Mines, Columbia College, New York, N. Y.

FRANK HENRY STANYAN.

Has been on the reportorial staffs of the Northern Budget and Daily Telegram, of Troy, N. Y., and from 1888 to 1890 news editor of the Boston Globe. Is now assistant night editor of the Globe. Is a member of Benevolent Lodge F. and A. M., Milford, N. H. 1893—still on the editorial staff of the Boston Globe. Married, October 13, 1891, Miss Mabel A. Buttrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Buttrick, of Milford, N. H. Born, Starr Walker Stanyan, July 11, 1892, at Milford, N. H.

Address, Globe office, Boston, Mass.

STANLEY MAJOR TODD.

Died January 30, 1890.

JOSEPH SWIFT WHISTLER.

In reply to your earnest call for information to be printed in our class report, I do most cheerfully respond, and shall endeavor to give you a full, yet brief account of my actions since parting from my class in June, 1887. Immediately upon leaving Cambridge, I went to Europe, where I traveled extensively. On the 2d of April, 1888, in Florence, Italy, I was married to Florence Fuller, daughter of William Henry Fuller and Frances Hastings Fuller, and niece of Margaret Fuller, all of Cambridge, Mass. I remained in Europe until May, 1890, when I returned to this country. The two following winters I passed at home in Baltimore, and this winter (1892-93) I am spending in St. Augustine, Florida. I am a member of the Maryland Club of Baltimore, of the Elkridge County Club of Baltimore County, Maryland, and of the Somerset Club of Boston. In conclusion, I may say that I expect to leave this country next autumn for the purpose of traveling in Europe and the East.

My permanent address is, care of Alexander Brown & Sons, Bankers, Baltimore St., Baltimore, Maryland.

CALVERT WILSON.

I am living in the town of Yuma, Territory of Arizona, engaged in the practice of law. I was admitted to the bar on the 17th day of April, 1888, the day before I attained my twenty-first year, in Tucson, Arizona, in the District Court of the first Judicial District of Arizona, and have since that time been admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the Territory of Arizona. After admission I went into business with my father, Thomas F. Wilson, at Tucson, Arizona. In November, 1889, I was tendered the office of Assistant United States Attorney by the late Col. Harry R. Jeffords, then United States Attorney, and on the 4th of November was duly commissioned to that office by the Attorney General of the United States. I held that office up to the 24th day of December, 1892, when I resigned to assume the duties of the office of District Attorney of Yuma County, Arizona, to which I was elected during the previous November. I am not married. I have taken a continued interest in politics and have been a member of several Republican County and Territorial Conventions, and have been Secretary of several Republican Clubs. Since leaving Harvard I have had the degree of Master of Arts conferred upon me by the University of Georgetown. I have written no books but have continuously written for papers in Arizona and in different parts of the Eastern States. I have made quite a number of addresses before political, educational and social societies, but fear that they are of a character that would not be of sufficient interest to my class to enumerate. I have travelled considerably in Mexico and over a large portion of the Pacific coast. About four years ago I took up 640 acres of land near the present town of Arizola, Pinal County, Arizona, when there was nothing there but sage brush. In company with several gentlemen from Chicago and Ohio cities, who made entries under what is called the Desert Land Act, on government land, we have attempted to develop the country, and by the procurement of water for irrigation we have built up a prosperous settlement and to-day have some very fine alfalfa farms. I write this for the reason that I think Southern Arizona is a coming country and that any young man of my class, either married or unmarried, who desires to find a new place to settle in will find it here. I would rather see an unmarried man, if he has small means because he can put up with more for a few years if unhampered by a family. Hoping that if I can be of service to yourself or any other member of the class of 1887, I will be allowed the opportunity of responding, I am very truly yours

JOHN DEAN BROWN.

Your circular reached me a few days ago in the midst of busy times. Your note for the moment stopped the onward march of time and carried me back to "happy days" at old Cambridge. I am always glad to receive the smallest word from "the boys," even if it comes in cold, formal print. I have nothing further to add to my "obituary." I have not been married or suffered any other severe calamity since the last notice.

THOMAS MARSHALL BROWN.

After leaving college devoted himself to literary pursuits for some time, and then began the study of the law, and was admitted to the bar of Allegheny County, Pa., June 22, 1889, and was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in 1891, and is now a member of the law firm of A. M. Brown & Sons of Pittsburg, Pa., which will be his permanent address. He is unmarried, and resides with his father, A. M. Brown, Liberty and Pacific Avenues, East End, Pittsburg, Pa.

SAMUEL COWAN HENNING.

Since January 1, 1887, has been in the real estate and fire insurance business in Louisville, Ky., as a member of the firm of J. W. Henning's Sons. Visited Europe in the summer of 1889 and 1891. Is unmarried.

ROBERT JAMES OGLESBY.

Studied law for about two years during 1885 and 1886 at Decatur, Ill. From the fall of 1887 to January, 1889, acted as private Secretary to my father during his last term as Governor of Illinois. Went abroad in April, 1889, and the following June, in company with Hiram G. Keays of the class of '87, made a bicycle trip over Europe. We started from Paris and went by way of Holland, Germany, Austria and Turkey to Constantinople, returning through Greece and Southern Italy, travelling a distance of about 3,000 miles. I returned to the United States in the spring of 1890, and for the last year and a half, I have been engaged in lead and zinc mining in Joplin Mo.

CHARLES H. STRONG.

After the Harvard Law School commencement in 1890, I began a clerkship in the office of Peckham & Tyler, lawyers No. 111 Broadway, in New York City. I am now managing clerk for the same firm. I am not married. I am a member of the Harvard Club and of one or two political and charitable societies. I made a number of speeches in the municipal campaign against Tammany in 1890.

Address, No. 111 Broadway, New York City.

THE CLASS BABY.

I am glad to say that the Class Baby is well and happy. She is scarcely a baby any longer, being nearly five years old, tall for her age and a very active little girl. She is already half through her second reader, sings a number of little songs very prettily and still speaks German nearly as well as English.

CLASS FUND.

Since the last report six new subscriptions have been made, making the total subscriptions to the Class Fund, $9,918.35. Of this amount, $7,692.35 have been paid, and $55 are not yet due, leaving due and unpaid a total of $2,116. Eighty-four subscribers are in arrears; of these twenty-one have paid nothing at all; sixteen have paid only one instalment; fourteen have three instalments to pay; sixteen have to pay two; and seventeen have not paid the last instalment. I can only submit these figures to you and urge that each one who is in arrears send in the unpaid instalments as fast as circumstances will permit, that the class may have the benefit of the income from it all.

The fund is at present invested as follows: Two thousand dollars in 6 per cent debenture bonds on the American Loan and Trust Company, of Omaha, Neb., secured by mortgages deposited with the Union Trust Company, of New York; $1000 in a 6 per cent mortgage guaranteed by the Lombard Investment Company of Boston; $1,126.84 in the Roxbury Institution for Savings; $984.31 in the Suffolk Savings Bank; and $995.22 in the Five Cents Savings Bank of Boston. A summary of the trial balance will be found at the end of the report.
